

The principal idea here is straightforward, but does sound a bit crazy to claim that some nobody has come up with a simple plan; how we can transform the UN and then achieve world peace as a side benefit :) Thank You for reading this manifesto.

I watched on YouTube Sir Bob Geldof's speech at One Young World 2017 event, and every word he uttered in it resonates with this idea below. Sir Geldof emphasizes that our old leaders cannot meet the challenge of NOW. We need to find new ways... new ways to address this new world that is a big mess of confusion and volatility. <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Y6iN67E6FRE>

Ladies and gentlemen, the plan below
IS THAT NEW IDEA!

Foreword

This plan below will show you how We The People can gently force the nations of the world to reform the United Nations. If the UN is reformed the way that is outlined in this plan that will automatically lead to world peace and countless other improvements all around the world!

This idea WILL CHANGE the world because it will be implemented by ordinary people, not by politicians. Politicians will just be the means to the end.

This manifesto has two parts. The first part will give you the basics of this idea, and the second part; the FAQ section will answer some of your questions, but, and ifs that the first part may bring up.

- The plan needs more ideas; YOUR IDEAS.
- The plan needs the right people behind it.
- We need a plan of action.

Don't underestimate the power of an idea whose time has come.

World Peace for once and for all

From the brink of World War to the brink of World Peace with emails.

Welcome to the World of Peace, Harmony, and Goodwill for all. As incredible it may sound, but all that is possible, with your help.

The ever so elusive world peace is attainable. We just have been going after it, a wrong way. We have been trying to talk sense to our leaders and to the United Nations, but that will never work.

There is a way to achieve world peace by We The People power. Together we can gently FORCE our politician around the world to reform the United Nations so that it will be the world's leader and also the police. This will eventually lead to world peace, real freedom and the basic life necessities for all the people in the world.

Let's reform the UN to the way it was INTENDED to be. Let's give the paper Tiger some teeth!

From impending climate catastrophe, many wars to the renewed assault on working class living standards, we don't have time to waste on the status quo, lesser evils, and token reforms in the UN. We must tear it entirely apart and rebuild it from the scratch to a world leader it can become.

We tend to think that the world is pretty ok and this is how it should be and that our leaders want what's best for us the people and our nations. But the sad truth is that even in the best of the nations, we are brutally worked and taxed to an early grave. For our leaders, we are just economic slaves who keep societies running.

I am now calling for one and final worldwide revolution to take over the whole world, and to bring common sense and goodness back. Sorry... not back, because the world has never been good; it has always been lead by big money, military machines, religious and political ideology, and sociopaths.

Are you willing to do YOUR part for the one final push to take over this planet and to create a paradise this world can be?

THE NEW UNITED NATIONS 3.0 (NUN)

The United Nations has done a lot of good in the world. I don't blame it, for its shortcomings. It's a paper tiger because some of the member nations have on purpose limited its powers because these nations want to rule the world.

We can achieve a lasting peace by gently forcing the nations of the world to reform the United Nations the following way.

The text below is a rough idea of the direction of how the UN could be reformed.

- The UN will be totally gutted and rebuilt to be streamlined and efficient.
- It will be reformed to be the world's real leader and also the police.
- The New UN (NUN), and all of its member nations will be obligated to protect any country that is attacked from inside or outside. All wars stop here!
- The NUN will lease armed forces for any peacekeeping missions, or for any armed conflict, it may be forced to fight, from the countries that now have large armed forces. (USA, China, Russia, Germany etc.)
- The goal is that ultimately within the next 50 years, only the NUN will have major armed forces.
- (I know that this is not easy to achieve, but even if this would not happen; the NUN can still be the world's police with leased armed forces.)
- The NUN will take a leading role over the world's' nuclear-, chemical- and biological arms reduction programs.
- The UN Security Council, veto rights and all similar unfair power structures will be abolished.
- The NUN will have the power and mandate to resolve any armed conflicts, stop wars, and to get rid of, by force if necessary of any tyrants in the world who hurt their fellow citizens.
- (The UN already has the mandate to resolve conflicts, but it has not being used properly, because some countries want to do all the fighting for the spoils of war.)
- The NUN will also take a leading role in combating terrorism.
- The NUN will make rules and laws as to how every nation must treat its citizens. (Basic human rights.)
- The NUN will govern over significant international pollution, global warming, nature and animal protection etc. issues.
- The NUN will also take a leading role in major natural catastrophes.

The big powerful nations of the world have been trying to solve the world's problems with minimal results, simply because they never try to solve anything but to PROTECT THEIR OWN INTEREST!

President Trump put this very nicely 2017 in Vietnam when he said to the other world leaders; "I will always put America first, as I expect you to put your country first." What if we all would put what's fair and good for the common good and the world first? WOW, what a novel concept!

Because every nation on earth does put their own nation's interest first; that is the very reason why nothing ever gets resolved in the world. This is the cyst of all the major international problems we have.

In the last century and before it was more acceptable in the world that the nations of the world took care of their own problems etc. because we weren't so intertwined and close to each other. Nowadays, because of the internet, fast travel and having shared challenges, we are like one big global family.

Because of this, we must start governing the world accordingly.

When it comes to the significant issues that we collectively face, we must have one centralized power that will deal with them without politics, partisanship or religions. To be able to solve the critical issues the world faces, we must work as a global family that we are.

Now it will be the new and improved United Nations' turn to finally resolve all of the major problems in the world once and for all. This is the only way we can save the world.

Don't take my word for it

There have been several attempts to reform the UN, but so far the results are quite thin. We cannot expect to have any major reforms from within the UN. We must force it from outside as outlined in this document.

<https://reform.un.org/>

<https://www.globalpolicy.org/un-reform/un-reform-initiatives.html>

Here is what Kevin Rudd said about the UN reform. He used to be the Prime Minister of Australia: *"I remain a life-long UN supporter, advocate and optimist. But the time for deep UN reform is now. Otherwise, the UN will, in the decades ahead, not die, but quietly fade away, the facade of a once grand building but where, on closer inspection, little of substance actually happens anymore. And that would be an avoidable tragedy for us all, large states and in particular small, signaling the end of what remains a core pillar of our post-world order."

<https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2016/aug/08/my-10-principles-to-reform-the-united-nations-before-its-too-late>

Also, Michael Møller, director-general of the United Nations Geneva office is for the reform. He was asked: Secretary-General António Guterres has strongly defended the need for reform within the U.N. What specifically needs to change?

He replied. "Pretty much everything. This is an organization created 70 years ago that has not entirely kept pace with rapid changes, realities, and big existential challenges such as climate change, migration, and health. We have to change our peace and security mechanisms, the way we do development, our internal management, and back-office functions."

He also said. "We have to return to a rules-based world with ethics and moral codes that we can agree to. They do not have to be those that were agreed upon 70 years ago, because the world is changing, and we have to change with it."

As growing concerns over climate change, human rights abuses, and mass migration intensify pressure for U.N. reform, Michael Møller, director-general of its Geneva office in Switzerland, insists that multilateralism is all the more vital.

Michael Møller. "There isn't a single one of these [global] problems that can be solved by a single actor," he said. "We have to do it together; otherwise, we shall all die together."

<https://www.devex.com/news/q-a-un-needs-almost-total-reform-says-geneva-chief-93909>

Many people are pointing out the fact that the UN is in danger of becoming irrelevant. It's time to reform it NOW.

"We have to do it together; otherwise, we shall all die together."

– Michael Møller, director-general, U.N. Geneva office

How can we achieve this huge world-changing UN reform?

By starting a massive email and social media campaign, in which people around the world are instructed to email to all of their current and future city-, county-, state- and national elected representatives something like this:

"Dear political candidate (elected official), I want to let you know that in order to get my vote in the this (next) election, you must be willing to make a public announcement that you support the UN reform and that you promise that you will do your best to make the UN reform reality. Thank You."

When enough people in ALL the countries around the world will do this for long enough, then the politicians will realize that, if they do not support the UN reform they will not get re-elected, or elected in the first place.

This campaign is not a one-off, but when we keep this pressure on with emails, in the social media and also in the mainstream media long enough, then sooner or later all politicians from local city level all the way to the presidents will be FORCED to get behind the idea of the UN reform.

Then surely, it's only a matter of time before the UN reform becomes a reality.

One great point is that the people around the world can conduct this revolution FROM THE COMFORT OF THEIR OWN HOME, and practically no cost involved. How could ANY decent person say no to this? Say no to sending a few repeat emails a week! And the people who want to get more involved, and there will be millions of those; they can print posters, create FB groups and promote this campaign with many different ways.

The best part is that the politicians won't have to do that much either. All they would have to do is to declare on their social media that they will support the UN reform. And then vote for it when the time comes. Minimal effort required!

IMPORTANT: The beauty of this plan is that it gives the politicians an EXCUSE to say; "Sorry my political party, sorry military machine, sorry big money, sorry lobbyist... I know that some of you might be against the UN reform, but I am FORCED by The People Power to support the UN reform. If I don't support it, I will not get elected/re-elected."

This gives the politicians a great way out; an excuse to disobey all these influences that they typically may have to obey.

Most countries around the world would support and welcome this New World Order, where the UN would be the boss. Politicians are human beings, and most of them are just as tired of the cold war mentality, wars, security council veto rights, some countries' bullying the UN etc, as we all are. How could ANY decent politician say not to this?

The US, Russia, and China would resist this, but we don't have to win every single countries' support. I believe that it should be easy to get at least 60% of the nations to agree on reforming the UN. Those countries can demand a vote in the UN about the reform. Of course, some countries will resist the reform, but what can they do, if most countries in the world want the reform. They must yield!

Once We The People get the UN reform accomplished, then if there is a need for it, we can use the same formula to force the politicians to pass some other beneficial laws for the humanity, nature and the world harmony. If we can accomplish this once, then We The People will be in charge from that point on, and not the politicians and governments!

How will we get the people of the world and media to support this idea?

The easiest way to get this email/social media revolution going is to find some influential people or peace organizations with enough clout to be able to contact a few celebrities who are known peace activist or the UN goodwill ambassadors and then to get them on board with this idea.

These celebrities are some of the known peace activist: Sir Bob Geldof, Paul McCartney, Yoko Ono, Ringo Starr, Bono, Angelica Jones, Oprah, Orlando Bloom, Emma Watson, Kristin Davis, Anne Hathaway, Priyanka Chopra, Cate Blanchett, Katy Perry, Serena Williams, Gisele Bundchen, Selena Gomez, Nicole Kidman, David and Victoria Beckham, Shakira, Sarah Jessica Parker etc.

Celebrities, sports stars, musician and other influential and famous people, businesses and organizations are the UTMOST critical part of this plan!

The principle idea is to have these celebrities and other influential people and organizations to introduce this plan to their fans and the media.

That's all it takes to get the ball rolling!

Just think about how easily the above stars could energize their friends, fan base and the media to support this idea with a few comments about it in the media. Other celebrities around the world would follow suit and spread the word to their fans.

Again the best part is that these celebrities would not have to do that much.

All they have to do is to encourage their fans to start sending emails to elected officials. They can do this with a few comments in media, Twitter and FB posts. How could ANY decent celebrity say not to this?

The plan requires relatively little money or effort to put it in motion. We all know the power that the celebrities have over their fans and media. With the help of celebrities, this idea could spread around the world in no time, and people would start emailing to their government and elected officials.

The above text is the central part of this plan. Very simple, yet very effective. How could transforming the world and achieving world peace get any easier than this?

Practically in every country, people are fed up and disgusted with their politicians and ineffective UN. They are sick and tired of constant wars, uncertainty, refugees and the US, Russia, and China keeping the cold war hot.

People are ready for a change. This plan gives all the people in the world an EASY opportunity to FORCE their politicians to support the UN reform so that WE THE PEOPLE can together create a true paradise this planet can become.

I do realize that to get all this done will take some effort, but as long as we can get the people of the world behind this idea, the rest will work out by itself. WE HAVE TO MAKE SURE THAT CELEBRITIES AND PEOPLE UNDERSTAND THAT IT'S VERY IMPORTANT TO KEEP THIS GOING AS LONG AS IT TAKES.

Once people of the world realizes that this idea REALLY is doable and that it actually CAN change the world, they will support it with open arms. This movement will grow like a wildfire.

Main points

1. We will need to get a group of people together, which will hash out the details, as for how this plan will be executed.
2. We get celebrities, music and sports stars and other influential people, organizations, and businesses committed to this email and social media revolution.
3. Once we launch: These people and organizations energize their fanbase, media and their famous and influential friends and colleagues around the world to get involved in this revolution.
4. People around the world start emailing to their elected officials about the need for reforming the UN.
5. There will be a huge PR and advertising campaign to support this in all the different media.
6. This pressure is kept up as long it takes to get at least 60% of nations of the world to support the UN reform. (We must emphasize to people that we MUST not get lazy or complacent, we MUST keep this up until we get results.)
7. After we have enough countries supporting the UN reform, then these countries will demand a vote in the UN.
8. When the gavel hits the desk in the UN, and the NUN laws' become affect; all the wars are practically speaking over. We have world peace!
9. This is the start of the New World Order (NWO).
10. The NUN will create a true paradise on earth for ALL the people in the world.

Who will run this movement?

I can see three different ways to run this movement.

1. Some peace organization takes over and runs it.
2. We start a new organization for this endeavor.
3. We hire an international advertising/PR company to run the whole thing.

I personally think the most efficient and the best all the way around would be to hire a big international advertising/PR company to take care of the whole thing. They have the personnel, know-how, and connections around the world to make this happen.

They can easily set up and mind websites and social media sites, produce the media kits and ads for all the different medias, line up the celebrities and keep this effort going with PR and ads, etc. as long as it takes to get the UN reform going.

How is this going to be funded?

I am sure that after I find some influential key person(s), who has enough clout to get for example Sir Bob Geldof and some other similar celebrity peace activist onboard with this, then the money will not be an issue at all.

Regardless of how this movement will be run, it will cost millions of dollars. But that is very small price to pay for world peace. When the key person(s) with the celebrities explain what we are up to, to the super-rich philanthropists and different foundations and businesses, the money will pour in. Who would say no to an opportunity to be part of something this big and important? There just isn't anything bigger and more important than this.

Below is a more detailed explanation of the direction of how the UN could be reformed

- The NUN will make detailed rules and laws about how all the countries of the world must treat their citizens. For example, it will make a ruling about child labor, girls' school issues, forced religious teachings, forced marriage, genital mutilations, economical slavery etc. Also, every country is obligated to provide the basic needs to its people. Such as basic education and basic healthcare for all, food and shelter etc. (What basic means varies from country to country depending on how poor the country is. These services don't have to be 100% free, but affordable enough so that most people can afford them, and poorest of the poor would get them for free.) And of course as these countries get wealthier, then these basic services get better as well.

These laws will be strictly enforced. If any country is not willing to obey them, then the NUN can fine, sanction, or is obligated even remove its leaders, set up a temporary government and will help to run this country until it's stabilized.

If a country is too poor to take care of its citizens, then the NUN is obligated to help that country until it is capable of taking care of its people.

The lack of basic necessities in many poor countries is not because of the lack of money, but because the leaders of these countries steal the money and they often also steal foreign aid they get. The NUN will have a mandate to get rid of tyrants that steal aid, or monies that belong to the nations.

- The NUN will be the world's police. It will deal with any situation with neutral stand and common sense values. The NUN will be obligated to protect every member nation from any violent attack from another country. Also, once the attack has been stopped, then the leaders and generals of the attacking country will be removed and tried in the International Courts. This will practically end all the wars the very moment this law becomes effective.

- The NUN will hire armed force coalitions from the countries that now have large armed forces for any warlike situations, or remove unruly heads of states. All nations in the NUN will pay their fair share for these operations.
- If a person starts shooting a gun around from his balcony or beats his family, the local police has the absolute power to remove that person who is a danger to his family or fellow citizens. Also if parents starve their children, they will be prosecuted for it. Why the leaders of many countries are not governed by the same law as its citizens are?
- The NUN will be obligated by law, by any means necessary to get rid of any world leaders, political party, religious group, terrorist group or armed forces, which for example starves, imprisons people for political, LGBT, religious reasons, or kills or mistreats their people in any way. This law alone would stop people suppression around the world.
- The NUN will take a leading role in worldwide arms reduction. The goal is that in about 30 to 50 years there are no more nukes, chemical- or biological arms in the world.
- Even though the US, Russia, China, and some other small “rebellious” countries will not give up their armed forces for a long time to come, but ONLY THE NUN HAS THE RIGHT TO DECLARE A WAR AGAINST A NATION OR A GROUP OF PEOPLE. Of course, every nation has the right to defend itself against any attack, and the NUN is obligated to help them.
- All armed response will be voted in the NUN between the member nations.
- No individuals or groups in the NUN can start any armed operations on their own. If one of these big countries; the US, China or Russia would start a military action against another nation, or against their own people, then they are declaring a war against EVERY member nation in the NUN. This kind of a situation, of course, would be a complicated issue to deal with, but I am sure that by isolating this country, very severe and immediate economic sanctions and penalties would bring this country back in line.

After the NUN is in power it will be very difficult and unlike for anything like this to happen. Just think about it; how could any country, regardless of how powerful its army is, survive if the whole world is against it? And also the two other powerful nations would be against it.

Also in the future, people around the world would understand that they are part of the solution and would stop traveling and buying anything from that country. No country could afford to be isolated. Anything like this to happen is very unlike.

Of course, also many other countries with major armed force will be hesitant to give up their arms. But in the future, as they realize that the peaceful world is also much better for them, they will start reducing them little by little by not buying new arms as the old ones get decommissioned.

When the NUN is in charge, then most of the smaller countries will soon realize that they don't need a big military force anymore. They will have small armed forces mainly to be able to protect themselves against possible riots, terrorism, etc. By having small armed forces they can save a lot of money.

Any border disputes between countries, independence movements, etc. will be resolved in the International Courts and the NUN will make sure that the nations adhere to these decisions.

There will be no more need for freedom fighters in any country because any person or a group could challenge the current leaders in open and fair elections.

- From the text above it may seem to some that the NUN will be some kind of a military monster. But that's not the case at all. Just the fact alone that the NUN must by law to protect any nation that is attacked, or remove any tyrants who hurt their citizens will work as a deterrent because these leaders don't want to go to prison.

Today many tyrants know that the other nations cannot do anything about them, and they keep on killing their own people and putting innocent people in prisons etc. Other countries scold them, but that's about it.

Let's take Myanmar situation, where Rohingya Muslim are being prosecuted, killed and displaced. Now the leaders give the world just lip service about this human catastrophe and ethnic cleansing. What would they do if the Thai army would come from the east? Chinese from the north. Russians would cover the air and the US navy would land from the sea?

The NUN would remove all the generals and leaders of this country and have them tried on courts for the crimes they have committed. The Myanmar armed forces would give up without a shot.

Most likely this will work out so that the NUN would never have to use any military power because the NUN mandates and laws alone work as a deterrent. When the NUN is in power there is no way any nation can win a war they start, because they are going to be fighting against every member nation in the NUN. So in the future, no sane leader of a country would start a war, because there is NO way they could get away with it. The new laws will dictate that they and their generals will end up in a prison.

- The security council will be abolished, in which five nations that won the Second World War rule the world. These countries don't have to adhere to the same rules as the rest of the nations do, because of the veto rights. They are China, France, Russia, the United Kingdom, and the United States.
- An important part of the NUN is the new values. A new value system will be created for the NUN, which is closely monitored so that all nations adhere to them as they interact, vote etc. in the NUN. These values will be based on common sense and good normal values and ethics.
- Any backroom deals, pressure, corruption, vote buying or bullying etc. in the NUN will be totally unacceptable. Now some nations threaten to cut their UN fees or aid to countries that are against them. That craziness stops now! If a country is caught doing any of the above-mentioned things, there will be a penalty. If misconduct is severe; the penalty could be a hefty monetary fine, isolation from the NUN decision making and this country's NUN representatives could be fired. All of the NUN representatives of any nation will be closely vetted to make sure that they fit the NUN values, rules and regulations.
- The NUN will be in charge and takes a leading role in major natural and man-made catastrophes. It's much more efficient that if there is one central point that coordinates the help effort. Also, the NUN will make rulings over MAJOR issues like global warming, pollution, wildlife, whale killings and nature protection, deforestation, cutting down rainforest etc.

- Every nation in the world is allowed to make its own rules and laws regarding political views, governing system, official religions etc., but they must provide the basic human conditions regarding shelter, food, basic healthcare and education, and such fundamental freedoms as political assembly, opposition, religion, movement, sexual orientation, freedom of speech, free media, equal justice, etc. to all of their citizens.

The above ideas for the NUN may seem to some people like an unreachable dream. That's because we have been totally brainwashed to think that this mess that we now have in the world, is the best it could ever be. The powers to be want to keep this constant "red alert" situation on because that's how they stay in power.

We are so accustomed to and grown numb to the current situation that we are not capable of even dreaming that the world could be free of wars and suffering. It's the same if a person has been starving and living in slavery for 50 years, he is incapable to even imagine that his life would ever get great. If we pressure our leaders for long enough so that they will support the reform, our lives will get beyond great. We can break free from the Old World Order and create a New World Order (NWO) that will be great beyond our imaginations.

The benefits of the UN reform will show up really fast in every aspect in our lives that even these big hesitant countries will start embracing the NWO. The whole world will be more prosperous in materialistically and emotionally. This reform will be a true miracle and a gift for individuals, corporations, governments and the whole world alike. This plan will lift us from this mediocre existence we ALL are now living in, to unseen heights.

Let's stop merely living, let's start thriving!

Final words of the part one

It's the world leaders of the three large countries that are desperately holding on to the old power structures. Also, it's big money, arms manufacturers, deep states and big corporations that profit from wars and uncertainty. They don't want peace and harmony. By reforming the United Nations, We The People can take power away from these entities. If we do not act soon; they will undoubtedly destroy the world!

We all are tired of wars, uncertainty, and fear. And it's a shame when three countries keep on living in the past cold war mentality and keep the whole world in hostage and in a constant limbo of war and destruction.

Most people around the world, regardless of their country, religion, race, age, social status or education want world peace and want to lead a simple good life. I believe that people will support this idea with open arms, and are willing to do their part for it. Especially since it doesn't take that much doing on their part.

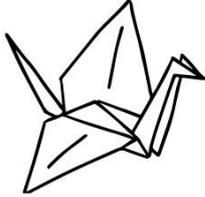

We The People are always named in the constitutional laws of most countries as the first and the most important beneficiaries, but we always end up being just workers in a huge industrial and governmental machine. We end up doing most of the work and paying the most of the cost of running a country. Politicians, big business, rich people, banks etc. always end up reaping the rewards. This stops now!

I don't blame the big international companies, rich, politicians and businesses. They are working on what they know. They don't know yet that a peaceful world will also be much better for them.

We will create the real paradise that this world was supposed to be. We will take the powers away from the people who are destroying the world in ever increasing speed. We will break free from the Second World War era UN practices. To save this beautiful planet and to blossom as humans, we must give the United Nations the powers to rule the world.

I am willing to support any feasible plan to get the UN reformed and to achieve world peace, but there just isn't any. We have tried for decades already, and there is hardly any meaningful improvement. This is a simple plan that has an excellent chance of succeeding. Don't we owe it to ourselves and the future generations that we at least try it?

We also need ALL businesses and organizations to support this effort. By putting a peace sign on their letterheads, business cards, internet, TV and print ads, etc., they will show that they support this movement.

Isn't it nice that we can dust off these old peace symbols and start using them again?

This time world peace has a real change.

Please do your part for the World Peace! You have no idea how the world will be thanking you for your efforts. You will be amazed!

Let's do it; let's finally transform the world!

The UN reform FAQ

This FAQ section below will answer to most of your questions, doubts, and concerns you may have about this plan. I am very keen on getting your feedback, constructive criticism and especially your ideas as to how to improve this plan. This is work in process.

Who is going to support this movement?

First off, we don't have to get every persons' support in the world, but if we get the support of the people who are for peace, nature and animal welfare, saving this planet etc. that alone might be enough. Worldwide there are thousands of environmental, animal, nature, freedom, equal right, developing nation aid and other similar organizations with millions upon millions of members. These people have been trying to help and save this world for decades. They are craving for a real doable way to save this planet. These people alone will be enough to persuade the politician in their respective countries to support the UN reform. But we will also get millions of ordinary peoples' support. A common man and woman, regardless of the country they live in would love to support a plan like this.

Mainstream and internet media are a CRITICAL part of this plan. We must win them over so that they will keep this issue alive and use their influence to make politicians to support the idea.

Social media is also a big part of this plan. There we can post the email addresses of our leaders. Especially during new elections, we must ramp up the emailing and posting. You can also send emails to embassies around the world and other city and government offices and everybody that you can think of, to show that we mean business.

Universities, schools, churches, environmental and social justice movements, and peace organizations are also an important part of this campaign. They can help by spreading the word to their students and members.

Volunteers can host an online and real meeting and peaceful rallies. They write blogs, books, and make videos etc. They can print bumper stickers or flyers. There are countless ways for volunteers to help this effort. Their efforts will be greatly appreciated by millions of now suffering children, women, men and the world itself.

It would also be great if this would lead to peaceful demonstrations, in which people would do a spontaneous short demonstration in a public setting where there are a lot of people. Such as sporting events, parks, public transportation stations, concerts, school grounds, city streets and especially during all political rallies and events. People would do the silent two finger peace sign, and also if appropriate, chant three times; "World Peace, World Peace, World Peace". It should not be too loud for the setting or happen too often in one time in one setting so that it doesn't become annoying. We want to be peaceful!

IMPORTANT: We want everybody to just KEEP ON sending emails to the leaders daily or weekly, for as long as it takes for them to start raising their hands in support of the UN reform. You can even email to other cities', states' or even other countries' elected official, and of course the UN personnel. It's very critical to keep constant pressure up worldwide with any conceivable peaceful means. (If you email to someone who is not in your jurisdiction, then your message should be different than what you email to your own leaders.)

We will encourage individuals, organizations, and businesses to be creative as to how they will spread this message to the world. There are countless individuals, PR, advertising, marketing etc. companies who would love to support this movement many creative ways; now they have an opportunity to use their skills as they spread the UN reform information.

What do the celebrities have to do?

Celebrities can energize people around the world and get them involved with this movement. And the best part is that they don't have to do that much, but to send a message that they support the UN reform to all their media contact, fanbase, friends and especially their celebrity and influential friends around the world. And then, whenever they are being interviewed for TV or magazine etc. they would bring it up that they are for the UN reform, and encourage others to join in. It just doesn't get any easier than that to save the world.

Most importantly we want YOU to encourage your friend that are influential, famous, sport, music, TV and movie stars from the local level all the way to the superstars, to get involved with this. We need as much media exposure as possible, from the smallest villages to the major metropolises of the world.

The celebrities, sports stars, influential and other famous people are a critical part of this plan because they have the media's and peoples' attention.

Most celebrities are against wars and are concerned about the environment, so I am very confident that most of them will join this movement.

What are all the potential benefits of this plan?

Below is a list of some of the major benefits. Of course, some of them would show up slowly and/or later on. One MAJOR point of this plan is that the new governing style in the NUN will most likely spread to ALL other areas of life, from businesses to nations. When businesses and nations realize that this new governing style is much more effective, because it inspires people to work hard for the common good, and to take care of oneself, own neighborhoods, cities, and nations, then that inspires to others to follow suit. And of course, to predict how greatly that will change the society is an unknown quantity, but I personally believe it will be tremendous. More than we can ever imagine!

The most obvious benefit is going to be that wars will end once and for all. Nations can start scaling down their armed forces. When the NUN has the legal powers, mandate and the armed forces of the world in its disposal, and the NUN puts a few tyrants in jail for the crimes against humanity, then the other tyrants in the world will realize that it's time to start behaving, otherwise they will be next. This act alone will help millions of people to achieve basic levels of a normal and free life, compared to the absolute poverty and enslavement that they now live in. There will be no more "golden handshakes" for these tyrants, in which they could retire to some other country with the billions of dollars they stole from their people.

The NUN will immediately start planning, with the help of ALL nations that have nuclear and other mass destruction arms. how to get rid of nuclear-, biological- and chemical weapons.

We can finally reach a consensus about global warming, rainforest destruction, major worldwide pollution issues, animal and nature protection, major fishing quotas, whale killings, etc.

The real democracy can finally start spreading throughout the world. Also, there will not be any ethnic, political, sexual or religious prosecutions anymore in the world.

The real freedom and basic necessities for all: food and shelter, basic education and health care. Slums of the world will start disappearing one by one. Every country in the world becomes safer and more livable.

Has there ever been another world peace plan that actually has the potential to change EVERYTHING in the world for the better? - Has there ever been another plan that REALLY could TRANSFORM the world into a PARADISE? NO, there has not!

This plan can deliver all that and MUCH MUCH MORE. IT will create unprecedented energy, joy, and hope for the world and it will help to raise us to new heights as humans and the world as a whole.

How can I think that reforming the UN could be this easy?

Reforming the UN will not be easy. It will take time and a lot of effort by very smart and dedicated people, but I am confident that together we will get it done. I am optimistic mainly because the people who will be reforming the UN, will be professionals with high values, morals, and ethics. And there will not be any countries, lobbyist or partisan groups meddling with the work. The NUN will be as neutral as it can possibly be. When good people with good intentions create something that is good for the world work together; it will all come together surprisingly easy and fast.

Many people and organizations before have tried to “save the world”. But they have been trying to talk to sense to the UN personnel; that will never work. The UN is way too complicated and has too many interest groups, and the Security Council countries etc. who are protecting their own power, so that’s why they have not succeeded.

The UN cannot be fixed by little improvement here and there. It must be totally gutted out and rebuilt piece by piece to fit the NUN framework. Now the UN is like a barely moving broken down car. It doesn’t help if we fix the bumper of that car. It must be rebuilt from the ground up.

First, we must come up with some basic value, ethics and morals guidelines, which the NUN will be based on; nonpolitical and nonreligious. Just common sense values and ethics. Then we use these values as a guiding line to help us to make the rules and laws on how the NUN must be and rule the world. All the member nations will approve these new NUN rules, laws and regulations.

When I say that the NUN will rule the world, it means that it governs and oversees the BIG global issues that affect most of the nations of the world. Just like it was intended, but then some countries watered down the UN powers, because they wanted to rule the world.

According to Wikipedia: In 24 October 1945, at the end of World War II, the UN was established with the aim of preventing future wars. At its founding, the UN had 51 member states; there are now 193. The UN is the successor of the ineffective League of Nations.

The UN was established with the aim of preventing future wars. Has it succeeded?

How will the NUN be set up?

I am not a specialist on this, but I would assume that it would have a similar set up as it now has. Very smart people will figure that out. The current UN staff will most likely know how to improve it.

Everything will be voted on by the member nations. It could be, one vote one nation, but it also could be slightly weighted so that the country with the biggest GDP has the most votes. For example, the US could have 10 votes and the poorest country in the world would have one vote. All the other countries would be somewhere in between. However it will be, it will be designed so that it is fair for all, and impossible to cheat, or to try to buy other countries' votes etc.

The main idea is that it will be as neutral as possible. No politics or religions. There must be several internal controls, which will ensure that it will remain neutral and that all the decisions are made according to the new values, rules, and regulations. Just think about it, that what will happen when every decision is made for the good of the people and the world.

Could bad actors take over the NUN?

There is always a fear that what if, some group of people takes over the NUN and enslaves us all. No worry. There will be countless internal and external ways to ensure that there could not be any kind of power grab in the NUN. The NUN's new value system alone ensures that it cannot start slowly leaning to any other direction but what was intended.

There could be an outside group of people who are independent of the NUN. This group analyzes and makes sure that all rules and laws are being followed. This group could consist of 20 people selected from the NUN member nations. Each member serves for two years. New members are selected randomly, which ensures that this group of people will stay neutral.

If this group notices any decisions or actions in the NUN that are against its' principals, rules, laws or values, then it will bring them to ALL member nations' attention and then the issue in hand will be voted on; whether this decision or action is allowed or not. And NUN personnel who are even suspected on any wrongdoings will be disciplined immediately.

What countries will embrace this plan first?

I would think that the first countries that will reach the consensus on people and political level on the UN reform might be from Scandinavia or some other small EU countries. As countries reach the agreement about this, we keep on ticking them off one by one, and when we reach about 100 countries of the world, then we can start thinking about taking the reform to the UN to be voted on.

What if your attempt to reform the UN falls short?

I am quite confident that this would not happen, but should it happen; even then at least we would bring the necessity of reforming the UN onto the foreground. People would start thinking in terms of how the world could be better off for all of us if the UN would lead the world. That could eventually lead to the reform anyway, even without this email/social media revolution.

What about the economic and international trade issues?

The World Trade Organization should also get more powers so that it can penalize countries that don't follow international trade laws. One is intellectual property rights. All international patents will be vigorously enforced. Currently, some nations force companies to reveal their trade secrets to them and also to start business ventures with them; then these companies are allowed to trade in that country. Stealing other peoples' and business' intellectual properties has been going on way too long.

The NUN and the new World Trade Organizations will not be an anti-business. We understand that businesses are a critical part of the economy and that they need to make profits to succeed.

Will the NUN put a stop to the current exploitation capitalism, in which only profits matter?

The NUN cannot put a stop to it per se, but I firmly believe that even this current rampant corporate greed and uncaring will change almost by itself in time because the NUN will show the world the new way of governing. Also, a peaceful world will affect every soul here so that We The People will become more humane and then we will naturally be more concerned about everyone's well being, and not only profits. We The People must reform ourselves first, and then the rest of the world will reform itself; We The People are the leaders of corporations, banks, and countries.

Corporate profits are very important, and I am not trying to say that corporations should not make good profits. But we all know that the corporations of the world are getting too greedy. This leads to greedy business practices. As We The People and the world gets transformed. I am sure that we will find a good balance in this area too.

This is not some kind of worldwide socialist movement. This a movement to bring common sense, good down to earth values and honesty to the UN decision making, and most importantly peace on earth. And then these values and practices will trickle down to countries, corporations, and individuals.

Who do you think will resist the UN reform the most?

When it comes to big nations; China, Russia, and the US will most likely resist it the most. Also arms manufacturers and dealers, and other similar groups that benefit from wars and conflict. Of course some of the UN personnel. Not everyone in the UN wants to go through a total makeover, especially if that may mean that they may lose their jobs.

What if some countries stay outside the NUN?

It's obvious that for example North Korea, Venezuela, Syria, some other Arab countries and also some other rogue and troublesome countries would stay outside. In time they could be lured in with monetary aid and other incentives and pressured economically and politically. If a county resists joining, it's not because of the people of that country want to stay outside, but because tyrant leaders want to stay in power.

Also, we must decide if the NUN should be obligated to remove the bad leadership of a country that does not belong to the NUN? I believe that the NUN should have that power especially if the people of that nation are suffering. This rogue nation is still part of the family of the nations in the world. The NUN could get rid of the leadership of a country like this, and then the new government/people would decide whether they want to join the NUN.

What if the current UN Security Council members stay outside?

I am very confident that France, England and the US will join the NUN. Maybe the US government would not want to participate, but the people will force it to join. There still is a big possibility that China and Russia would stay outside. But by doing so they would lose face because they would show the world that they don't want what's good for the world, but only what's good for them. Any major nation that stays outside will show the world they want to keep wars, uncertainty, and chaos going on.

If any nation would stay outside, they would soon feel isolated. And citizens in these countries would pressure them to join in. Also, people around the world could stop traveling to and buying things from that country. There are many gentle ways to urge them to join in. In a few years, these nations would start seeing that the peaceful world is also much more beneficial for them than the old world order. Eventually, all would join in, for sure.

Will the NUN will use boycotts?

Yes, once We The People force the UN reform that will make people realize that We The People can pretty much rule the world with our combined power.

Today most people are just too busy to get involved in boycotts, and they don't believe in their power, but the UN reform will prove and show that We The People have the power.

This is going to be great; once we boycott a few large international companies and then some countries for the wrongs they are doing, for example, mistreating their employees or some ethnic group and put them back in line, then other companies and countries will not even try to get away with abusing their employees, etc. They will realize that they will not get away with this kind of behavior anymore.

Way to boycott is to stop buying products from that company or country. Of course, it's easier to boycott a fast food chain, some retailer or hotel chain, than a whole country. But for example, just stopping buying wine from France, Salmon from Norway, cheese and chocolate from Switzerland or if each of us would buy fewer things from China could force these countries to change their ways in a few months.

Also, people will realize that boycotts and We The People power are much more effective than riots, which usually cause more harm than good.

The NUN may use armed forces; many peace activists are against using violence

I understand them, and also I would like to resolve ALL the problems in the world with talk, but what if a talk is not working?

If there is a crazy tyrant who is threatening his own people's lives, we may have to use violence to get rid of him. Wouldn't you want that to be done, if it were your family's life that was in danger?

As would anybody, also most pacifists would be screaming for someone to shoot the intruder who is trying to kill their family. When a crime happens to you; your child is being raped or murdered, you do want to have someone to come rescue you with a gun in their hand. It's so easy to be against violence when you are safely far away from danger.

According to Wikipedia, The United States imposed the first sanctions against South Korea in the 1950s. The UN Security Council has passed a number of resolutions since North Korea's first nuclear test in 2006. We have been playing this very dangerous nuclear game with North Korea since 2006!

This is the main problem with our current system. We don't end these kinds of situations at the beginning. We let them go for years. And the reason for this is that only the US has had the powers to force North Korea to stop testing. But the US presidents haven't done anything because they are more concerned about their popularity numbers and legacy than anything else. They know that, if they try to do something, the situation may turn into a huge mess, and that is why they have stayed clear of North Korea.

Now the Trump administration is at least trying to solve this situation. Let's hope it will lead to a peaceful resolution. One big hindrance has been this: A total of 49 countries violated United Nations sanctions on North Korea to varying degrees between March 2014 and September 2017, the Institute for Science and International Security said. That includes North Korea's top trading partner, China, as well as Germany, Brazil, India, and France. Also, Russia among others has lately been shipping stuff to North Korea.

THE POINT IS that the North Korean situation would have been resolved a long time ago if countries and companies have not been violating the sanctions. All these years the people of North Korea have been suffering, while the top brass lives in luxury.

The NUN would act immediately when there is any violation of the new international laws. And it would have the powers to severely penalize any company or country that violates any sanctions. If the NUN would punish a company so severe that it would go out of business. This would work as a deterrent, and other companies would take notice.

POTENTIALLY this situation in North Korea could lead a nuclear war, and hardly anybody seems to care. Should that happen, the party would be over. The whole world would tailspin into a deep depression, which would lead to all kinds of upheaval. Mass unemployment, huge mass immigration, refugees, etc. would lead to chaos all around the world.

Kim Jong-un has his back against the wall. Unless he gets a deal with the US government, he knows that there is no peaceful way out for him. He will either killed by bombs, his own people or put into a prison for the rest of his life. This makes him very dangerous because he's got nothing to lose.

Once he gets, let's say ten nukes. He could easily shoot one of them to the Pacific ocean, and then say that if we attack him, the next ones will be going to the US, China, South Korea, Europe, etc. From that point on he will have the world on the palm of his hand. He can blackmail the world, and there is nothing we can do. Then he can freely build a vast arsenal of nukes and basically, rule the world. When this happens, then it's too late to do anything.

If a man shoots one bullet from his balcony, he is taken care of immediately. Shouldn't that be the case with the generals and leaders of countries too? After all, we are a family of nations.

Current terrorists and dictators are one thing, but we also have new advancing technologies to worry about. Lasers and other theological arms are getting more powerful. What if in five years we can print Bazooka, land mines, hand grenades with a 3d printer?

What if, we can soon buy a laser or a drone that can down an airplane that is landing? These things could make air travel practically impossible. When the new technologies give the crazy and bad guys an opportunity to cause havoc, without the fear of getting caught, then the hell will break loose in the world. This might be closer than we realize.

I am sure that it's only a matter of time that one could make a small electronic bomb in his garage that could take out the power grid of a small area. Artificial intelligence is developing fast. It could bring all kinds of harmful things to terrorists and rogue nations. Also, even home computers could soon be powerful enough that we can make biological and chemical weapons in our garages. One can easily buy or build an all-terrain mini tank and mount a machine gun on it and control it from a distance, even home. Bad people can cause a lot of havoc with these things. How are we going to stop these threats?

The UN must address these threats. Maybe some of these things must be outlawed worldwide? Same goes to certain chemicals that can be turned into drugs. For example, in China, there is hardly any control over many of these precursor chemicals. They are manufactured and sold openly even though everyone knows that they are being exported for illegal drug manufacturing. The Chinese government doesn't care. Export income is much more important. We must put a stop to this total lunacy.

The point is that we MUST clean the world out of wars, tyrants, and terrorism NOW before it's too late. We must create a peaceful world NOW so that we might be able to avoid going the way I paint above.

We must have one central authority that will govern and resolve these very critical issues we are facing and will face in the future. As we all have seen, the way the world is now being governed will lead only to more chaos, because our current leaders always play power plays and try to benefit from these crises we have. Nowadays nothing is ever solved so that it is good for the world and humankind, but so that some company or a country will benefit from the issue at hand.

The world now is like a rat-infested housing complex; you will never get rid of the rats little by little; you must do a major clean up. After that, it will be a lot easier to keep it clean.

Time is ticking fast.... our politicians will wake up when it's too late. WE MUST TAKE THE POWER NOW. IT'S LATER THAN YOU THINK!

Unfortunately, we currently live in a world, in which sometimes violence is the answer. But of course the NUN will always use all available peaceful means first, and the armed response is the last resort.

How much suffering we have in the world today?

The consequences of OUR inaction of not being able to prevent and stop wars are incredibly dreadful. Sources: International Crisis Group, UNHCR, Uppsala Conflict Data Program

- Over 65 million people are now displaced due to conflict and persecution – more than ever recorded.
- The majority of the world's refugees come from three countries devastated by war: Syria, Afghanistan, and Somalia.
- At least 70 conflicts involve non-state actors, a historic high.
- An estimated 126,059 people were killed in conflicts in 2014, the largest annual number of fatalities since the Rwandan genocide in 1994.
- The past five years have seen worsening trends across conflict indicators: more wars, more people killed and civilians increasingly targeted.

And you thought that the world was getting better, safer and that there was less suffering in the world. And this is just war-related problems. On top of this, think about climate change, animal extinction, pollution, and other environmental issues, refugees and the last but not certainly the least worrisome problem; individual, the national and total global debt crisis that is going to hit the fan sooner or later.

Can you even imagine what will happen when the world's economic machine grinds to a very painful halt? (And it will if we don't stop living on credit.) When there is mass unemployment around the world, and refugees and immigrants are willing to work for less money. Starving refugees from the Arab and African countries are going to travel to Europe, and South Americans will travel to the US by the millions; we have seen nothing yet. That will lead to racial/civil wars within nations and ultimately to maybe wars between nations and to chaos. You really think that our current UN and politicians around the world are capable of stopping this utter madness and disgrace. No, they are not!

There is another way, but are we smart enough to take it? Now we finally have a workable plan for STOPPING ALL THE WARS in the world, and also it can help us to avoid the coming major upheaval if we act fast enough.

Who will pay for the UN reform?

There could be a UN reform fee that all the UN member nations would pay according to their Gross National Product. I am confident that the money will not be a problem. Rich countries, businesses, rich people and even ordinary people could all make donations to the UN reform fund.

When it comes to running the NUN, it will be completely streamlined. It has grown to a bloated beast with no teeth. All unnecessary departments, overlaps, etc. will be cut out; and there are a many of those. In this day and age, every nation should be able to find English speaking delegates to send to the NUN. There is a tremendous amount of waste in translations etc. Cutting some of the cost of running the NUN off could save the NUN as much as it cost to reform it. And no matter how significant the cost of reforming it will be, it will be worth it.

What if individual countries don't want to give up their sovereignty to the UN?

Didn't many countries do that by joining the EU? That was a total power grab if there ever was one. But what would any country give up by joining the NUN? I cannot think one single negative thing. The opposite is the truth; they would gain tremendous value from it. One of the biggest values would be that the member nations would be protected if attacked by any other nation. Because of that, the member countries could in few years spend $\frac{2}{3}$ of their defense budget to other areas. Only the leaders of rogue countries that mistreat their citizens would feel the negative consequences.

Just think about all the benefits all the member countries would get

- The NUN will be obligated to help nations that are not able to take care of their citizens.
- The NUN will protect any nation from internal or external violent attack.
- NO MORE WARS OF ANY KIND.
- WORLD PEACE.
- The NUN would, with the help of member nation mob up terrorists and “freedom” fighters once and for all.
- All different ethnic groups from Rohingyas in Myanmar, to Kurds in Syria and Chinese Uighurs and many others will finally find peace.
- Most nations could start using most of the money that now goes to arms and armed forces to other more important matters.
- The NUN will be equal for all the nations.
- No more bullying in the UN. No more vote buying etc.
- We can finally get a consensus and agreement on many pressing global issues, such as global warming, pollution issues, animal and nature protection, etc. The NUN will have the means to make sure that all the nations adhere to the laws.

These are just a few main benefits. When we get this project started and more and more nations and people start working for a common goal of a peaceful and harmonious world, then this energy will spread in every aspect of our lives. This will happen surprisingly fast. The world as we know it will be long gone. Something new, something wonderful will replace it.

The UN reform is the world changing MIRACLE that we have been waiting for!

How could the UN afford to help all the struggling nations of the world to feed, provide shelter, basic health care and education for all?

Of course, it could not do it overnight. Most impoverished nations have inefficient, corrupt and greedy leadership. In many cases, a country could take care of its people on its own, if the leaders would not steal most of the money. For example Nigeria, the leaders keep/steal huge amounts of the oil wealth that the nation produces. There are countless similar countries that have enough money to take care of their citizens, but the money doesn't trickle down to the people

Also, the aid we currently give to poor nation might alone be enough to take care of these people if it went where it was supposed to go. In some cases, 60 to 90% of the aid money, food, and goods disappear before it reaches the intended people. Governmental and private charities are also notorious for having huge overhead and bloated salaries, which eat up most of the aid money, on top of what the corrupt officials in the aid countries steal. Money to help impoverished countries is already there, but it's not going to the right addresses.

Also taking care of the people doesn't mean that some poor African nation must provide three bedroom house, with satellite TV, hot water and air condition, free university, and healthcare for all. To start with we are talking about providing very basic conditions. Then we keep on improving on them as times goes on.

Many people will be out of work if there is no longer a need for arms

Yes, this plan will also have "negative" effects like this, but this is progress for the better world. We cannot keep fighting wars just because we want to keep the arms manufacturers and dealers in business. The Internet put many businesses out of business. This is how the world works.

Many arms manufacturers will find new products to develop and to build. Warplane manufactures could start building civilian airplanes, spacecraft etc. And of course, there still will be a need for arms for recreational use, police, national guards and small armies that most nations will still maintain. And some of the biggest countries will still have massive armed forces for a long time.

How is the NUN going deal with terrorism?

It will take a leading role in combating terrorism. The UN is obligated to help any nation that is being attacked by any large group of terrorist or freedom fighters etc., whether they come from outside or inside of that country.

Now in some countries, the leaders don't care about cleaning the terrorist out, because of the uncertainty and constant fear of bombs etc. keep citizens' minds preoccupied with the fear of the terrorism. Meanwhile, the army generals get kickbacks from arms manufacturers and the rulers can empty the coffers of the country. If you want to know why something is the way it is, look who is making money with the situation. Follow the money!

There also will be a mandate that every country must squash any terrorism at once they know about it. If they are not capable of doing it, then the NUN will come to their aid. One major difference will be that any armed conflict is going to be dealt with immediately. Now we wait for years to see how they develop, while thousands of people get killed and huge numbers of people are dislocated. If a country cannot stop the terrorist, then the NUN will go in with massive enough force to stop them on their tracks before it gets out of hand.

On the NUN's watch, NO tyrant or country will get away with these things anymore. It will be entirely a new ball game.

How is the NUN going to deal with the refugees?

Any country can take as many refugees from any part of the world as they want. But when it comes to illegal refugees, as we have seen happening in Europe, the NUN will be part of the solution.

One of the most important points is that any mass exodus is going to be dealt with immediately. For example, if a Syria kind of situation develops on the NUN's watch, and people of that country must get out because of a war. Then the NUN will pay, help build and maintain as many refugee camps near the border of that country as it takes to house ALL the refugees. So that when the situation clears, it will be easy for people to return back to their own country. The refugees are NOT allowed to get out and start a mass exodus. Eventually, they will return to their own country.

Actually, in the future, there is very little possibility that Syria kind of situation will happen again because wars will be history. There could be some natural disasters, famine etc. that could create mass refugees. These issues will also be dealt with by the NUN, swiftly and fairly. All the UN member nations will pay for these operations.

What if the NUN starts meddling with the internal issues of its member countries?

That will be prohibited by internal laws in the NUN. There will be very clear laws and regulation as to what the NUN can and cannot do. All the member nations will vote on these laws.

The NUN will be in charge of only MAJOR international issues and issues that affect all of us. For example the climate change, whale hunting, pollution, wars, terrorism, etc. Big issues like these must be decided in an environment that is non-political, non-religious and non-bias in any way. Only then we can find real lasting solutions to all major issues we are now facing and will face. Now every issue in the UN is power and political struggle. Nothing is ever resolved with common sense and the way it is good for the world or the people.

The NUN must have the authority to enforce these laws and to penalize the countries or companies, which are not obeying them. Nowadays many nations and companies find ways to cheat on international treaties, so what good are they, if they cannot be enforced?

The NUN may have to enforce laws on a sovereign nation. For example, let's say that we realize that the Brazilian rainforest really are the lungs of the earth, and they must stop cutting it down. Whatever the excuses Brazil may use, it's not going to be enough to justify that we jeopardize the well being of the world. This is such a huge issue for the whole world that the NUN must go to Brazil and stop cutting down the rainforest if the Brazilian government is not able to stop it. Or the NUN will help Brazil to stop it.

In cases like this, when rainforest and other HUGE areas of the land are cleared for agriculture they are mostly done by big greedy multinational corporations. This happens ever increasing speed in many countries around the world. Soybean fields in South America are one big culprit. They always have the same excuse; people need food. But that's a lie. If the governments in those counties would not steal all the money and businesses would pay at least a minimum wage, the people would have enough money to buy food etc. It's the big greedy businesses that are the worst offenders in these issues.

When it comes to meddling with the member nations, the European Union is the opposite of what the NUN will be. EU controls almost everything in the member countries. The EU even had a law that Cucumbers cannot be too crooked. That led to huge waste, because of a big part of the harvest had to be thrown out. That law was repealed, but every year the EU keeps on adding new totally useless laws and rules. In time the EU will gain total control of the member nations.

Many people are against centralizing power into one institution

We need to centralize the MAJOR decisions about the world to one neutral power.

People are afraid of this because in the past this has led to dictatorships; like it did with Hitler, Mao, and Stalin. It's impossible that the NUN would become a police state or dictatorship. Those days are long gone, but people still have this knee jerk reaction to this whenever centralized power comes up.

European Union and the United States are centralized powers, and people seem to be okay with them. One HUGE advantage over other centralized powers is that the NUN will have is that it will be lead by professionals without political wrangling or religious ideology. All decisions will be made for the good of the world, by people who are professionals in each matter they work on. Just stop to think about that for a moment; the NUN will have professional staff, not big ego politicians who rarely know nothing but how to play political games.

What is your warning to the tyrants of the world?

When the new laws become effective in the NUN, then there is no longer a possibility of any tyrant of getting off free – no more getting “golden handshake” and comfortable retirement. After the gavel hits the desk in the UN headquarters and the NUN is born, then it will be obligated to remove and prosecute these tyrants.

When the NUN takes over an unruly country, its citizens will feel safe to start giving testimony on all kinds of old crimes. Lower ranking people will be promised deals if they can indicate the higher ups. Generally speaking, the NUN will mainly go after the higher level government, police and armed forces leaders. Lower ranking members were in most cases ordered by their superiors to commit these crimes.

Murder never gets old. Even old crimes will be investigated and already retired ex-tyrants and army chiefs are not going to be safe. There will not be bail. These tyrants and generals will be waiting for the trial in the same prisons they threw their opponents and innocents people. All their ill-gained property will be confiscated and bank accounts will be frozen. Even the leaders and army chiefs' families and close up friends and business partners properties will be confiscated if they are determined to be gotten illegally.

All unexplainable wealth will be confiscated. Many accountants, close friends, and lower ranking people will aid the investigations to save their skin. So it will be very easy to find the hidden bank accounts and to prove financial crimes.

How would these the legal proceedings be conducted?

Of course, the NUN and the International Courts will determine that, but I would conduct them in the actual countries, not in Hage. First there will be a through evidence collection period, witnesses are lined up and after all that is done, the temporary court is set up. Most judges should be from that particular country. Of course, there needs also be international judges presence, but it's better if the country's own people deal with their own criminals.

The laws as how to the tyrants and generals etc. are tried on, should be simple and clear, so that they will not be able to hire, with the money they have stolen from their own country a "dream team" to defend themselves, so that the trial will last for years on end.

In most cases, it will be very clear what crimes they have committed, so this process will be fast. Also, they should not be prosecuted for every single crime or murder they have committed, because it will take a too long time to gather all the evidence to prove each individual case. If a tyrant is found guilty of a few murders and financial crimes that will be enough to put him away for life. All the other crimes that he is suspected of committing could be read in the court so that the victims and families of the victims, will get closure. Idea is that this process is speedy so that the country can start moving on.

Of course, all accused will get a fair trial, but not like it's in many western countries where just a little doubt will get you off. Often criminals have more rights than victims, police or prosecutors; the prosecutor has a lot tougher job to prove the case, than the defense. After the country is liberated, culprits are in prison, properties are confiscated, then this country can start rebuilding itself with new leaders and laws.

How should independence issues be handled?

I think it would be very healing for the world if areas of some countries that have been forcefully taken could become independent, or join back to their original motherland. The NUN will come up with the rules and laws regarding all of these border and independence movement issues. These laws will be voted in the NUN so that every nation is part of putting these laws together. International Courts will hear these cases, and the NUN will enforce them.

These laws must be based on common sense, for example, was the area taken by force in a war? How long ago? How well has this area been integrated into the current country? Would breaking it off cause major upheaval to the people who live there? Do the people of that area want to leave this country, or is it just some small group of people? Is it an ethnic group that wants to be independent? What are the grounds for breaking off?

I would think that the start of World War I, or II could serve a good cut off point because they both were major wars that affected most of the nations in the world. (WWI was 100 years ago, maybe that's a convenient cut off point?). If some area was taken way before that, it's now part of the new nation, but of course, there could be some special cases. And any major group of people could take their case to the International Courts.

What will happen, if we don't reform the UN?

This may give you some idea of it: China's president said in a speech in October 2017 that China's goal is to tighten the armed forces and civilian life more together; sounds bad whatever that means? Also, their goal is to be the world leader and to have a world class armed forces between the years 2035-2050. This means that Russia, Japan, India, and the US must keep up with China. The arms race is going to continue forever. The US is starting a Space Force. India and Pakistan are currently in the brink of war. We must stop this utter craziness!

China and Russia are building their armed forces like there is no tomorrow. Russia is supposedly scared of the NATO waging war against it and taking it over, and Europe is preparing for a Russian attack. How crazy is this?

Are these leaders really this crazy, or are they just playing a game of uncertainty and fear? It's very hard for me to believe that the Russians really fear that NATO will wage war at it, or that the Chinese feel that they will need all those arms for actual combat.

Could all this be because politicians and our leaders can hold on to the power the easiest when times are uncertain, and the constant fear of war is present?

No country in the world can even dream about waging a war against the US, Russia or China; simply because there are so many nukes, it's impossible for that to happen. Is it possible that the US, Russia and/or China could have a limited war? They all know that even a limited war could easily escalate to a full-blown nuclear war. So because of all this, I believe that the wars, conflicts and the arms race is happening because the leaders and politicians are in the pockets of the arms manufacturers and dealers.

In the US the arms lobby is very powerful. Normally Republicans and Democrats hardly ever agree on any issues, but not so surprisingly most wars they agree on. Could this be because they both are so heavily lobbied on by arms manufacturers?

It really is beyond all my imagination that in this century we are still fearful of each other and spend a lot of money on arms, wars and all kinds of conflicts. I would understand this kind of thinking, if we were living in the 1800s, but not today. So the question is; are our leaders' mental states based on the thinking of the 1800s, or is the deep state, arms manufacturers and dealers who are in charge here?

No matter what the answer is, we must break free from this utter craziness, before it destroys us. Our leaders will wake up when a major war breaks out, or when the rising sea level starts washing the toes of the Statue of the Liberty in New York. Then they will start blaming the old administrations for these problems. Even then, they will not be able to reach in any kind of consensus, because politics is like that. Our current UN is not capable of ruling the world; we must reform it, and give it the keys to rule the world before it's too late.

If we add the cost of all wars, armed conflicts, freedom fighting, national guards, armies, police force, private guards etc. I am quite confident to say, that close to 30% of all the monies we have in the world go these areas. And if we count the cost of rebuilding bombed out countries, hospitalization of the people etc., who knows how much all that actually cost.

The United States has spent nearly $6 trillion on wars that directly contributed to the deaths of around 500,000 people since the 9/11 attacks of 2001. This has created an unfathomable amount of human suffering, on which we cannot put any price.

What kind of people will the NUN draw to itself?

I am sure that there already are a lot of good dedicated people in the UN, but the UN has become bloated and some people want to work there just for the fame and for advancing their careers. The UN has its share of power hungry, big ego, narcissistic people who are there for the wrong reason. These people enjoy constant crisis and upheaval. They love to be in the limelight pretending of solving yet another major crisis. They never do resolve anything, but just bandage it for the moment. But I don't blame the current UN personnel. I am sure they are trying their best under the rules and regulations that are now in.

When we set up a new governing model in the NUN, in which high values, morals, and ethics govern every decision that is being made. What kind of people will that draw to the NUN? Would a person with bad values thrive in that kind of an environment? I don't think so.

This is an essential part of the UN reform. The NUN will draw a different breed of people into it, as it did before.

In every government around the world, and also in the UN, there already are thousands of these people who feel that working for the people of a nation is their calling. I call them invisible mass. They are the core of any workforce that keeps things together, but they never get the credit for it. In politics or in business, it's the loud mouth, big ego leaders who steal the glory that these people should have.

This invisible mass would be willing to work for free for the NUN because they feel that dedicated to the wellbeing of the world. But in the NUN they will be properly compensated and also they will get the glory for running the NUN. These people can have their own political and religious views, but they will be smart enough that they will leave them at the coat check when they start making decisions in the NUN. This is what kind of people the NUN will draw to its doors.

This is why I am very confident that getting the UN reformed would not be that difficult of a task that it may seem to many people. With super dedicated people, new values and ethics, it will be a breeze. The UN already has a lot of dedicated people who would love to reform and work for the NUN.

Just think about what kind of energy would this create in the NUN! The huge issues that we now argue about for years without getting any meaningful results, would be resolved in a few meetings. People would work tirelessly and with full of energy because they see a clear result for their efforts, and most importantly; they see how the world gets better by the month. With this kind of energy and cooperation between people, the NUN would solve the most major problems we now face, in a few years.

Before the UN has not been able to solve any major problems simply because they always are watered down compromises that protect some powers and countries. They are NEVER done ONLY for the good and well being of the people and this world. Just stop to think about the power of a decision, which is done ONLY for the good and the wellbeing of the people and this world. How powerful would that be!

There will be a different BREED of people in charge of the NUN. The breed, whose foremost concern is what's good for the word and its people. They know that what's good for the people and the world itself, is good for the corporations and nations too.

What can We the People do for our communities and countries?

We The People have become too docile and dependent on governments. We The People must be part of the solution.

What good is world peace for us, if we are not able to walk fear-free in our cities and neighborhoods?

We The People must take control of our cities. What good is it for you, if there is peace in Syria, but at the same time you cannot walk to a local market because you might be beaten, robbed on knife point or molested? Or you are scared that your child may be lured into using drugs or getting into a gang etc.? We must take our neighborhoods back from hooligans, gangs, and criminals with the help of local police.

As we start reforming the UN, we must also reform our own lives, neighborhoods, cities, and countries. Then and only then we will be able to say that we have a true WORLD PEACE and we are leading good lives. We just cannot expect the UN reform, or our politicians to take care of fixing all the world's problems, we MUST be a BIG part of the solution, and we also must be willing to DO OUR PART reforming our own lives, families, and neighborhoods!

When given the chance, the people will start doing their part for the world, whatever that may mean for each person. Picking up trash in their own neighborhoods, painting over graffiti or taking their neighborhoods back from the gangs etc. This way there will be pride in one's own life, work, families, property, and neighborhoods.

I have a plan for this too. Let's first get the UN reform on the way and then as our confidence arises that the NUN will create a new world for us, and then we will tackle our own countries' and neighborhoods' problems.

Education

One way that we will ensure that every new generation will make this world even better, is by education. The NUN will create a new curriculum for youngsters that countries around the world can take for free, and adapt to their needs.

As I write this, in Finland a minister is very worried about some youngsters not learning enough, and he wants to start mandatory preschool education for all, at three years of age. This is a typical way politicians' knee jerk reaction. Make the children study longer and harder.

If there is an increased youth crime. Politicians would recommend: let's build more prisons. Generals: let's whip them in shape in the army. Minister: let's pray and bring them to the church.

This is pretty much how today's' societies are run. Nothing is ever solved as a whole. Delinquent youths are just a symptom. The cause is what we must find and remedy.

Our politicians don't want to rock the boat. They just want to have bandaid remedies. They don't stop to think that maybe the real reason why kids don't want to learn is the old school system, or that youths are delinquent because our societies are sick? Maybe the schools are boring and they teach kids just to be cogs of the wheels in society. Maybe schools don't want to teach the kids how to find their own calling? Maybe are they brainwashing kids to be the next generation of "slaves"? Also, in many cases our children don't get good neutral education, they get societal, religious or political indoctrination. Is that how we should bring up our children? We cannot do better for them?

Maybe the remedy for issues like this, is to create a totally new kind of society with new values and ambitions? And that starts with education.

This new NUNs “good life” curriculum will concentrate on teaching about self-confidence, self-worth, good common sense values, how to take care of the world, nature, animals, respect your elders and teachers, the importance of good manners and presentation skills, importance of personal integrity, honor and honesty, responsibility, self-reliance, health, exercise, how not to get fat etc. How to find your own path in life. What is important in life. How to deal with one’s emotions and feelings. what means to be content in life. Dangers of drugs and alcohol etc. In other words, it will teach youngsters how to live a good healthy life.

Life skills and good value system are important bases for a successful life. When young people are taught these kinds of things, they are much less likely to end up criminals, addicts or unemployed. We must change our education systems to teach our kids more of these life skills. If they have these skills down, then they will be more successful and happy regardless of how low their education level is.

If you will just stop to think about your own life for a moment. How would have it been, if you had an opportunity to study in a school where they taught skills like above? If you would have learned to like or even love yourself, you would be fearless in front of other people, you would have solid self-confidence and you would have a high degree of self worth-would, you would have kept your body and mind healthy, you would have had enough balls to follow your own path and dream, you would have not stayed in toxic relationships and would not have abused drugs or alcohol etc.? How would your life be? At least mine would have been more exciting, freer, interesting and probably even more successful.

Actually, because we don’t have the skills mentioned above we live a mediocre existence. If you would love yourself, be free to perform anything without fear, would not be introvert or shy, (you are shy because you don’t have self-confidence) would be able to make friends anywhere and would have a solid self-confidence on your work skills, you would not have self-doubt and fears, then your life would be good.

Having these learnable skills is how you have happiness, contentment and success in your life.

Have you ever met a happy/content person who has fears, is overly shy, don't have self-confidence, hates him or herself, etc. No, you have not! And the same goes to a person who is greedy, selfish, envious, bad, criminal, mean, violent, etc.

Youths

Today's youth are VERY critical for this idea to succeed in the long run. We MUST get them excited and involved in this project. If they own this idea, then they will improve and support it as they grow older. They are the future!

We must get the Scouts and all the other youth organizations around the world excited about this New World Order. Many of them are already doing their part of educating the youth about good values. Now we must support them even more.

I am impressed with this young man below. He has 10 million youths under his wing. We are trying to create a secure future for his generation. We need people like him to support this movement.

Shane Feldman is an internationally recognized global youth empowerment expert, motivational speaker, producer, and social entrepreneur. As Founder and CEO of Count Me In, Shane is the creative strategist and visionary behind the world's largest youth-run organization that has impacted over 10-million youth in over 100 countries.

The beauty of this idea is that it really is only the beginning. First, we will reform the UN and then ourselves and our countries. I do have a plan for that too. Stay tuned.

Final thoughts

At the beginning of this manifesto, there is a saying: Let the peace begin with me. People tend to think that world peace is up to the leaders of the world. But that's not the case. It all starts with you and I. We are those leaders. Do your part and be part of the solution, then others will follow the suit.

When We The People are in peace, then the world is in peace. Peace starts with You!

We need everyone's help to transform every city, county and the whole world to a paradise they can be; especially YOUR help.

Imagine

The late John Lennon said "Imagine," the world without wars would be a paradise. The energy that will be released around the world, when we can ALL finally collectively sigh with relief that THE WAR IS FINALLY OVER will be incredible.

It will give us so much hope, optimism, joy, energy and most importantly love for this world and all of its citizens that this energy will lift us from the mediocre existence that most of us now lead, to the new highs that we cannot even imagine now.

With all the money we save from not fighting wars, we will have enough money to find a cure for all the disease that ail and kill us. We will be able to create new body parts and medical procedures that enable us to live a long and healthy life. We could solve why we are here on this beautiful planet, and how to live happily. So many things to explore and to find answers for. WE CAN ACCOMPLISH ALL THAT AND SO MUCH MORE IF WE UNITE AND REFORM THE UN.

We could solve all the major problems in the world because we would reach a consensus in the NUN about them. Now we just keep on arguing about them for years on end. And whenever we do reach some sort of an agreement, it's watered down and most nations don't respect them. Now we let a few world leaders keep us in constant turmoil and fear. We keep on arguing and fighting over petty issues, while we could be concentrating on the important things around us and live large.

We all humans are entitled to be treated with basic dignity and values. This world and being treated with respect doesn't belong to just some; rich and elite. Dignity, freedom and basic human conditions are everybody's inherent rights!

Most people don't want a grand life. They want a normal, safe and happy life with basic human necessities. Let's together give it to them.

Where will the UN reform lead?

How could one ever know where the UN reform will lead us; when every new good deed inspires a new even greater deed. All I know, it will be wonderful.

When one looks around, it's very apparent and easy to see that most people are struggling. There is a personal struggle; health, family and relationship issues. Then there are problems and struggle at work or study. And also there are many hurdles that our governments around the world throw at us. Some countries are freer than others. Surprisingly many are close to "slavery". There really is not a totally free society anywhere yet.

I firmly believe that after we reform the UN, and it will start making a huge difference in everybody's' lives that We The People will see the light; we will realize how backward and inhumanly we have been living our lives.

We will see how our governments around the world have been using us as cogs on a wheel. We are used and discarded as human trash. It is a sad truth that most governments want us to die right after we became useless. They don't want us to have a happy retirement. Even in the best of the countries, we are kind of "slaves" of the societies.

If we would always do what's the right thing to do, our lives and the world could be the paradise it should be. These are the things we should be teaching to our kids, not just more and more theory.

A good life is simple, yet tricky because our governments have brainwashed us to be dependend on it. And also media makes us to run after wrong things. We run after things, money, power, and other things that cannot give us what we really search for, which is peace of mind and contentment.

There is absolutely nothing wrong with having money, power, fame, and fine things, but we must own them, and not the other way around.

Let's reform and transform the UN, our countries, neighborhoods, and our own lives once and for all. We The People can do it. We must take the power away from our governments and other institutions. This world was supposed to be for us the People of the world, and not only for the elite, governments and big corporations.

Who is the first brave politician who dares to utter these words to their supporters, political party and big money: "Thank you all for your support, but now I must do what's good for my people, my country and my world. I will support the UN reform."

The beauty of the UN reform plan, is that it gives the politician's for example in the US an EXCUSE to say; "Sorry Pentagon, sorry CIA, sorry NSA, sorry military machine, sorry big money, sorry my party, sorry lobbyist, I know that some of you might be against the UN reform, but I am FORCED by the People Power to support the reforming of the UN. If I don't support the reform, I will not get re-elected...so what can I do? I must support it.. sorry. :)"

YES, what can the politician do? Nothing... there is nothing they can do, but support this idea, if we pressure them long enough!

This gives the politicians a great way out; an excuse to disobey!

Most decent politicians in civilized countries would support and welcome this New World Order anyway. Before they have not been able to get anything like this started, because of political party lines, military and lobbies' pressure. Most politicians are just as tired of cold war and wars and toothless UN, as we ALL are. Let's give them an excuse to arise against the old world order!

You may say I'm a dreamer

But I'm not the only one

I hope someday you'll join us

And the world will be as one.

—John Lennon's song "Imagine"

I am just throwing some basic ideas here for an example of how the UN could be reformed. I am just a layman when it comes to the UN.

We do need a team of smart people that will put together a more detailed and better-written proposal for the UN reform that we can show to the world. And of course, ultimately in the UN, there will be professionals who will do the actual reform.

I don't have to tell you what this could mean for you if we could pull this off. It would be the most significant and magnificent accomplishment we could ever even dream of doing.

There just isn't anything more significant and more important than this. This would be the most disruptive, and world-changing event ever, and most importantly in a good way.

Do you want to be a part of the history of transforming the world?

Please, let me know your initial thoughts about this. Thank You.
