

Welcome to the World of Peace, Harmony, and Goodwill for All

A New Impartial, Values and Law-Based World

Part I

I am proposing that we reform; tear down, and rebuild the United Nations so that it has the mandate, duty, and means to take care of and govern, with all the member nations, all major worldwide issues that affect the world. Such as wars, unruly dictators, human abuse issues, mass refugees, famine, human rights, lack of fundamental freedoms, major environmental issues, economic slavery, human trafficking, pandemics, worldwide pollution, state-sponsored terrorism, cybercrime and hacking, biological and nuclear arms reduction, and other similar major issues must be decided in a neutral, unbiased way.

Don't let the talk about the UN discourage you from reading this document, it's not what you think. I understand that because of all kinds of conspiracy theories, many people are afraid that any worldwide organization that would be in charge would "enslave" us all. I will assure you that with this plan, the New UN cannot make any kind of a power grab. (More about this later in this document.)

I have a fascinating and unusual idea of HOW we can gently force our leaders to reform the UN, and how that will ultimately create world peace, and also give us all these countless other benefits.

There's nothing new about this proposal. All UN Secretaries-General have tried to reform the UN, but the UN Security Council's member nations, deep state, and other more or less shady organizations are against any efforts to fix the UN because they profit from the current constant turmoil and wars.

Currently, we are trying to solve these very important problems in hostile environments, in which countries and big organizations are all trying to selfishly gain something, instead of making compromises for the good of the people or the world. This is not the smart way to lead and govern; all decisions end up being watered-down compromises that are not good for anyone involved.

Let's create New Impartial, Values and Law-Based United Nations

The New United Nations (NUN) will make sure that every nation in the world will provide basic universal human rights and freedoms, as well as basic food and shelter, education, and healthcare to their citizens. No more starving people, forced labor, unlawful imprisonment, or prosecution because of one's religion, sexual orientation, or political views!

The NUN will not become some kind of absolute ruler of the world. Also, this is not a One World Government or any globalist agenda. The NUN will only concentrate on MAJOR worldwide issues that must be solved impartially for the good of the people and the world. It's not the NUN that will alone decide what to do with these issues, but all the member nations will vote on them. The NUN will be run by professionals in their field, not by career politicians.

Every sovereign nation in the world will be allowed to make its own rules and laws regarding political views, governing systems, official religions, etc., but being treated with respect doesn't belong to just the rich and elite. Dignity, freedoms, and basic human conditions are everybody's inherent rights, and every nation must provide them to its citizens.

In fact, the NUN will enhance sovereign nation independence and freedoms as much as possible. Our countries, cultures, and people's diversity are something we must treasure.

Michael Møller, director-general of the United Nations Geneva office, said about the UN: "There isn't a single one of these [global] problems that can be solved by a single actor. We have to do it together; otherwise, we shall all die together."

Don't underestimate the power of an idea whose time has come. - Victor Hugo

Are you satisfied with our current leaders?

Are you satisfied with how the US, EU, Russia, China, YK, WHO, and many other players argue about everything and nothing meaningful ever gets done, even on very critical issues that we face?

For example, because of this constant arguing and because Covid was politicized, we still don't know if masks and lockdowns were useful if vaccines helped or hurt us, which medicine cures Covid, or where did Covid originally come from? (Had we been united, we could have learned a lot from Covid and how we can combat new pandemics in the future.)

Also, we were scared to believe that only vaccines can save us, or that vaccines are poison and will hurt or even kill us. Just think about this; had we had one reliable institution in charge of the Covid situation, how much better and smarter we could have dealt with the Covid pandemic? We may have avoided lockdowns and saved countless lives.

Wouldn't it be very smart if we had one reliable and the neutral entity whose main purpose would be to take care of us and the world in these critical issues?

Let's look at possible global warming. Several large countries are barely cutting their carbon footprints. Many South American countries are cutting down their rainforests faster than ever because large multinational food companies "rule" them. In the US, republicans don't believe in global warming, but democrats do. Also, in the EU, global warming is a hot political potato. It seems that the right is against it, and the left for it, and both sides buy research results that support their narrative from universities and research centers. It's not a secret that you can buy any results for any research project.

Also, the media pushes its view of global warming based on political affiliations. This is why finding reliable and neutral information on these important issues is almost impossible.

On top of that, because we have communism, capitalism, dictators, kingdoms, democracies, different religions, etc., and they all have their inflexible views, it's very difficult to find a consensus on anything. We just keep on arguing, when we should unite our power behind one plan of action.

Because of these issues mentioned above, we must give the UN the means and mandate to take care of these issues for us. I believe that the NUN could easily figure out if there is global warming and how to remedy it, by hiring neutral scientists to study it. It's possible that these scientists could make a mistake, but if we have one entity in charge, we can easily change direction after realizing that we made a mistake.

Above I talk about only two issues; Covid and global warming, but the NUN could help us with many other pressing problems that we are facing now and in the future by ensuring that it's all done neutrally and properly. Are we smart enough to finally let professional people take care of these issues?

Don't you think that the New Impartial, Values, and Law-Based United Nations would be able to serve us much better than our current toothless UN and ineffective leaders around the world?

World Peace once and for all

Ever so elusive world peace is attainable, but we just have been going after it the wrong way. We have been trying to talk sense to our leaders, but that will never work, as we have seen already.

The United Nations was established in 1945 after World War II to prevent any future wars. Unfortunately, it has not succeeded on this front because several countries, with the aid of powerful war machines, have prevented the UN from doing its duty. Wars, turmoil, and rebuilding of war-ravaged countries; spoils of war is a huge business.

The situation just keeps on getting worse! “The 2022 edition of the Global Peace Index released by The Institute for Economics and Peace reports that global peacefulness has declined for the eleventh time in the last 14 years.”

Which countries have tried to maintain peace on earth? Mostly the US and its coalitions, but they have failed on this miserably. Just about every nation they have attacked with the excuse that they are spreading freedom and democracy has ended up being in worse condition than before the war.

The UN has been able to keep some sort of peace in many countries, but still, the same dictators stay in power, and people suffer. YK peacekeeping is just a band-aid remedy.

We still live like in medieval times, when constant wars were a norm because we live in mass psychosis. We have been brainwashed to believe that constant wars and turmoil are the only way to exist. We let our leaders and their friends commit crimes against humanity without prosecution. Our leaders stay in power easier when there is constant turmoil.

You would think that in the 21 century, we wouldn't anymore have leaders who wage war! People don't want wars, but our corrupt leaders do. We must put a stop to this madness!

How can we end all existing wars, and stop future wars before they happen?

It's this simple: we must give the United Nations and all of its member nations a mandate to defend any nation that is attacked from outside or inside. If the NUN and all of its member nations are duty-bound to protect and defend any country that is attacked, how could any nation attack any other nation because then the whole world would be at war against them? Also, the NUN would have the duty to remove any dictator that hurts their citizens and deal with state-sponsored terrorism and cybercrime.

All wars stop here!

I want you to stop to think about this; all we have to do is to give the UN a mandate and powers to defend the world and we will have world peace!

In practice, this would work so that the NUN would hire armed forces for any peacekeeping missions from the NUN member nations, just like it does now, but the main difference would be that it would have the mandate to end all aggressions by any means necessary.

From the text above, it may seem that the NUN will be a military monster, but that's not the case at all. Just the fact that the NUN must by law protect any nation that is attacked or remove any dictators who hurt their citizens. This will work as a DETERRENT because these leaders would realize that they cannot get away with their wars or killing their citizens anymore.

Most likely, this will work out so that the NUN will never have to use any violence against any nation. The immediate and severe penalties and the threat of sending defensive forces will stop any country from attacking another country or mistreating its citizens. Why would any dictator hurt their citizens or attack another country if they knew for sure that they would end up in prison?

Today dictators know that other nations cannot do anything to them, and they keep starving and killing their people and putting innocent people in prison. Other countries scold them, but that's about it.

For example, let's say that somewhere in Africa, there is a dictator who hurts his citizens. The NUN could tell the generals of that country that if they did a coup and let the people vote for new leadership, they would be able to walk away free. Or if they stay with the dictator, they would end up in the same prison as the dictator. I am sure that the generals would walk away. Also, the NUN could give the same message to the soldiers; walk away or go to prison. And, if needed, the UN's troops could shoot a few missiles at some military targets, and the war would be over in a day or two. But the NUN would always use diplomacy, threats, penalties, and sanctions before any military action.

Giving these DEFENSIVE powers and mandates to the NUN will eventually lead to world peace, real freedoms, and the basic life necessities for all the people in the world.

Why do wars, turmoil, and all major crises last for a long time? The reason for that is that countries, politicians, big money, arms manufacturers, armies, deep state, etc., never let a crisis go to waste. A crisis can always be used against political and other opponents, or for gaining money and power, and that's why most crises and wars linger on. All the organizations that benefit from wars and turmoil want to milk them as long as possible. (This is now happening in Ukraine, certain countries and shadow governments want to extend this war.)

The energy of joy and hope

It's also good to realize that as soon as we publish this movement worldwide, and especially when it starts to look like the reform of the UN will go through, the effects will begin immediately. The dictators of the world get scared and frantically think about how to get out of trouble. Also, all armed conflicts and wars begin to subside and slowly fade away.

Since almost everyone is now very pessimistic, or even afraid of their own, their family's, or their company's future, this would give the whole world a real vitamin injection, and the joy, hope, and energy that would come from this would be enormous. It would immediately have a positive effect on the world economy and thus on the life of every person.

It is good to remember that the Corona mess; forced vaccinations, corona quarantines and restrictions, as well as the lack of nurses, energy crisis, food shortages, logistics problems, product, and raw material shortages, inflation, bankruptcies, people's fears, and mental problems, travel bans, different sanctions resulting problems for the economy, the indebtedness of the people and the states, the possible future deep depression, as well as the current wars and threats of war, are all due to the inability of our leaders and the UN to manage these issues. And also that certain parties benefit from these problems and therefore maintain them for as long as possible.

If the New United Nations had been leading us, none of the above would have happened at least as strongly as they have now affected us. A powerful UN is the only entity that can save us from all these current problems very quickly.

Whenever someone is apprehensive about this plan, just ask them if they want world peace or constant turmoil. If you want peace, do you have a better plan that will deliver almost instant world peace and countless other benefits like this plan? They may reply that it's impossible, we won't be able to reform the UN. Reply, it's impossible until We The People do it. There are only two ways here: You are either for wars and turmoil, or peace and harmony.

Let's not forget that about 20 years ago, the European Union was formed out of thin air. This process was 10 times more complicated than the UN reform. In most European countries, about half of the people were against it, and all in all, there was a lot of arguing and countries trying to make the EU so that they would benefit from it more. But when it comes to the UN reform, most people and countries would welcome it with open arms.

Also, there are a lot of people against NATO expansion. They would support this plan because NATO would become useless after the UN has been reformed.

There's nothing unusual about my ideas above because the UN already has the mandate to stop wars and many other similar laws that I propose in its books, but they have not been enforced. Some of the world's large countries benefit from the current status quo, and they will not allow the UN to function properly.

"It is not for a lack of ideas that we do not make progress in improving our global system – the ideas are already out there. It's because there is no attempt to then implement those ideas." —

Fred Carver, head of policy, United Nations Association – U.K

(<https://www.devex.com/news/is-the-un-ready-to-face-the-future-96254>)

Let's reform the UN to the way it was INTENDED to be.

Let's give the Paper Tiger some teeth!

This is how we can stop wars before they even happen.

Below you will find these three key points on how we can accomplish this:

- 1. How do we gently force the politicians/countries of the world to support the UN reform?*
- 2. How do we get the people and media to support the UN reform?*
- 3. How do we run and fund this movement with free money?*

1. How do we gently force the politicians/countries of the world to support the UN reform?

From the brink of World War to the brink of World Peace with e-mails.

By starting a massive email and social media campaign, in which people around the world are instructed to email all of their current and future city, county, state, and national elected representatives and all other important people something like this:

“Dear political candidate (elected official), I want to let you know that to get my vote in this (next) election, you must be willing to make a public announcement that you support the UN peace reform and that you promise to do your best to make the UN peace reform a reality. Thank You.”

It could also be something like this: Dear CEO of XXX Inc. As you know, we are planning to reform the UN. For some reason, your company has not yet supported this movement. We hope that you will do so soon. We need everybody's help to reform the UN. Unfortunately, there are only two ways here; you either support the current constant war and turmoil situation or peace and harmony.”

There could be some instances that we may have to threaten some key businesses, for example, social or other media companies, that if they don't support the UN reform, then we must boycott them.

Even in a normal situation, politicians get thousands of emails every day, so they will not read these emails. But if they start getting tens or hundreds of thousands of emails every day, and there are countless social media posts, and main street media supports this movement, they will get our message.

When enough people around the world do this for long enough, then the politicians will realize that if they don't support the UN peace reform, they will not get re-elected or elected in the first place.

This campaign is not a one-off, and we must keep this pressure on them with emails, social media, and also mainstream media for long enough. Then, sooner or later, all politicians from the local city level to the president will be FORCED to get behind the idea of the UN reform. Surely then, it's only a matter of time before the UN peace reform becomes a reality.

One great point is that people around the world can conduct this revolution FROM THE COMFORT OF THEIR OWN HOMES, with very little effort and practically no cost involved. How could any decent person say no to this? Say no to sending a few repeat emails and social media posts a week!

The people who want to get more involved in this movement, and there will be millions of those; can volunteer by printing posters, having meetings, blogging, creating FB groups, posting lists of all the political candidates and their email addresses, and promoting this campaign in countless different ways.

The best part is that the politicians won't have to do that much either. All they would have to do is declare on their social media that they will support the UN reform and then vote for it when it comes. Minimal effort is required!

IMPORTANT: The beauty of this plan is that it gives the politicians an EXCUSE to say, "Sorry my political party, sorry military machine, sorry big money, sorry lobbyist... I realize that you might be against the UN peace reform, but I am FORCED by my People to support the UN reform. If I don't support it, I will not get elected/re-elected."

Of course, we all must follow through with our threats and vote for those candidates who promise to support the UN reform. When other political candidates around the world start seeing that only candidates who support this reform get elected, they realize that we mean business.

2. How can we get the people and media excited about this plan?

The easiest way to get this email/social media revolution going is to get celebrities and other influential people on board with this idea.

Celebrities, sports stars, musicians, other influential people, social media companies, businesses, churches, schools, and peace organizations are all critical parts of this plan!

The principal idea is to have these individuals and organizations introduce the idea of reforming the UN to their fans, followers, members, and customers. That's all it will take to get the ball rolling!

The following celebrities are some of the known peace activists: Sir Bob Geldof, Bono, Paul McCartney, Yoko Ono, Ringo Starr, Angelica Jones, Oprah, Orlando Bloom, Emma Watson, Russell Brand, Kristin Davis, Camila and Matthew McConaughey, Leonardo DiCaprio, Anne Hathaway, George Clooney, Priyanka Chopra, Cate Blanchett, Katy Perry, Serena Williams, Gisele Bundchen, Selena Gomez, Nicole Kidman, David and Victoria Beckham, Shakira, Sarah Jessica Parker, and Sting.

Accounts with the highest number of followers on Instagram: Cristiano Ronaldo 517M, Justin Bieber 455M, Ariana Grande 429M, Selena Gomez 425M, Taylor Swift 361M, Dwayne Johnson 342M, Katy Perry 338M, Kylie Jenner 333M, Rihanna Music 332M, Kim Kardashian 319M. (Of course, many of those followers are bots and duplicates, but still, together these celebrities must have at least a billion unique followers.)

Just think about how easily the above stars could energize their friends, fan base, and the media to support this idea with a few comments about it on social media. Then, other celebrities around the world would follow suit and spread the word to their fans.

For example, if just these 10 above-mentioned celebrities on Instagram would support this idea and they would get just 200 million of their followers to also support it. And then those 200 million people would each get just a few of their friends also to support the UN reform, and so on. That would be one to two billion supporters, in no time. The power of social media!

Again, the best part is that these celebrities would not have to do that much to get this movement rolling. Very little effort is required.

All they would have to do is to encourage their fans to start sending emails and social media posts to their elected officials. Celebrities could do this with a few comments on different media. How could any decent celebrity say no to this?

Also, I am sure that most religions, schools, universities, businesses, mainstream media, peace and other aid organizations, philanthropists, social media, Google, Yahoo, Twitter, and other similar internet companies would support this movement with open arms. I cannot think of any reason why they wouldn't support it.

Launching this movement requires relatively little effort. We all know the power that celebrities have over their fans and the media. If enough celebrities started drumming this idea, then the media worldwide would follow suit, and the rest would be history.

3. How do we run and fund this movement with free money?

There are three different ways to run this movement.

1. We will start a new organization to run this movement.
2. We will find one major international advertising/PR company, which starts this movement with peace organizations.
3. No one runs it. Celebrities will launch it on their social media, and the people will simply send emails to elected officials.

Maybe the best way would be if we go with the number 2. An advertising company, because they know how to sell this idea to celebrities, people and politicians. Selling ideas and dreams is their business!

This international advertising company could easily set up, and mind websites and social media sites, produce the media kits, and print/film ads for all the different media, line up the celebrities, and keep this effort going with PR and ads, as long as it takes to get the UN reform done.

This advertising company and the peace organizations must be willing to do something unheard of and be able to think outside of the box when it comes to funding this movement.

How can we fund this movement for free?

The beauty of getting advertising companies and peace organizations involved in this movement is that they are always looking for jobs/donations. Our advertising company and peace organizations could approach philanthropist billionaires and charitable trusts, and ask for donations to pay for running the UN reform movement.

Because they would get tens of millions of dollars in donations for running this movement, this would give them a BIG INCENTIVE to get involved in this endeavor. I wouldn't be surprised if this turned out to be the biggest advertising campaign in the world's history.

To succeed in empowering people to take the world into their own hands, the advertising campaign must be massive and long-lasting. Now, all the people and companies are talking about carbon footprint, but when we launch this revolution, this must be on everybody's lips.

Also, other advertising companies and peace organizations worldwide could use this movement for local fundraising and then promote it in their marketplace. It's a win-win situation for the advertising industry and this movement.

Also, these advertising companies have many big corporations as clients, giving hundreds of millions of dollars to charities annually. Why wouldn't these corporations support this movement that will create world peace and a new prosperous society that will, in return, help these corporations?

Of course, if we could find a philanthropist willing to give us the initial funding for this movement, then a check in hand, it would be easier to find an advertising company to run this movement. (Should we get lucky enough to find a donor, all the money would go directly to an advertising company, not to me.)

If anybody, advertising companies should be able to sell this idea to celebrities, charitable trusts and billionaires, and then to the masses!

Once we get some high-caliber celebrities, and other influential people on board, then the super-rich philanthropists, different foundations, and businesses will happily open their wallets: the money will pour in. Also, most A-list movie and sports celebrities have their charitable funds and would most likely contribute donations to this movement.

Who would say no to an opportunity to be part of something this crucial for the world and humankind? To be part of history, when the world finally rises to its glory of being a paradise for all.

People in every country are sick and tired, fed up and disgusted with their useless politicians, and the ineffective UN. They are sick and tired of constant wars, turmoil, uncertainty, major environmental issues, refugees, and now gas and food shortages, on top of the US, EU, Russia, and China keeping the cold war hot.

People are ready for a change. This plan gives people an EASY way to FORCE their politicians to support the UN peace reform so that we can create a true paradise that this planet can become!

Once people of the world realize that this idea REALLY is doable and CAN change the world, they will support it with open arms. This movement will grow like wildfire.

We must ensure that celebrities and people will keep the pressure on as long as it takes to change the world. This is not a one-off.

I want to emphasize that this isn't just another impossible pipedream to peace. Stop to think about the Arab spring and how it was mainly conducted and spread on Facebook. Think about the power of social media!

The above text is the central part of this plan. Very simple, yet very effective.

How could transforming the world and achieving world peace get any easier than this?

This idea WILL CHANGE the world because it will be implemented by ordinary people, not by politicians. Politicians will just be the means to the end. And most importantly, if we can accomplish this goal, then we can use the same method to force the UN to get rid of the unfair security council and reform the UN in many other ways that are beneficial for the world.

Who would support this movement?

There are countless peace, nature, climate, charity, and other related aid organizations around the world, which would love to get involved. On top of that, there are billions of fans of celebrities and influential people who would get on board. Also, most smaller countries would support his movement with open arms.

Also, if you think about all the billions of ordinary men and women around the world, they would support this movement regardless of their race, political, religious, or economic background because they will understand that the result of this movement is going to save the world from the impending destruction that it's heading towards. We just have to educate the people of the world on why this idea will save the planet; there's nobody better for this job than advertising companies.

When we launch this movement, we will immediately see who is for turmoil and war, or harmony and peace.

Summary of the main points

1. The UN cannot be fixed from the inside but outside. Many of the UN positions are political or other favors, so it's expected that many people in the UN will resist this movement. The UN was created for the welfare of the people in the world, not for the big wigs of the UN.
2. We will need to get a group of people together to hash out the details as to how this plan will be executed.
3. We will find an international PR/advertising company that wants to be the main launcher of this movement.
4. We get celebrities, influencers, social media companies, internet companies, and peace organizations committed to this revolution.
5. We will find charities that commit to funding the launching of this revolution. If need be, we can even crowdfund this movement.
6. Once we launch: These people and organizations energize their fanbase, media, and their famous and influential friends and colleagues worldwide to get involved in this revolution.
7. People around the world start posting on social media and emailing their elected officials and other important people about the need for reforming the UN. And they will support and promote this movement in many other ways.
8. There will be a huge worldwide PR and advertising campaign to support this in all the different media.
9. This pressure will be kept up as long as it takes to get at least 60% of nations around the world to support UN reform.

10. Once we have enough countries supporting the UN reform, these countries will demand that the UN start a committee, which will figure out how the UN should be reformed, and in time all the UN member nations will vote for it in the UN.
11. When the gavel hits the desk at the UN headquarters in New York, and the New United Nations' new peace laws become effective, all the wars are finally over.
12. This will start the New Impartial, Value, and Law-Based World Order.
13. With the help of We The People, the NUN will create a true paradise on earth for ALL the people in the world.

We will have World Peace!

If we succeed in creating world peace, that would be just about the biggest single event that has ever hit the world and humankind and, most importantly, a new beginning for the human race and this world. In the future, we could use the same tactics to gently force the leaders of the world to do as We The People want on other important issues. In time this would create a true democracy in the whole world.

Some additional points about this plan

Most countries worldwide would support and welcome this New Impartial Value and Law-Based United Nations with open arms. Politicians are human beings, and most are just as tired of the cold war mentality, wars, the UN security council veto rights, and how some countries are bullying the UN, as we all are. How could any decent politician say no to this?

The US, Russia, China, and some other smaller countries might be against this idea, but to force UN peace reform, we don't have to win the support of every single country. I believe it should be pretty easy to get at least 60 to 70% of the world's nations to agree on reforming the UN. Then these countries can demand a vote in the UN about the reform.

The US, EU, and, many other countries keep telling us that they are true free democracies and want to spread it all over the world, but it's not the true democracy they are pushing. They want to rule the world, or at least they want it to be their form of democracy.

If we all want democracy, why don't we let the NUN democratically govern the world? Now the UN Security Council member nations are above the international laws, and every major country is pushing their ideas of democracy to other nations. Let's let the NUN be the true main democracy in the world, and then individual countries can choose if they want to be democracies or something else.

The NUN will govern ONLY the MAJOR global issues that affect the world as a whole.

Examples, wars, terrorism, dictators, human abuse, human rights, major environmental issues, failed states, refugees, famine, pandemics, major natural and manmade disasters, state-sponsored cyber crime, hacking, spying, bullying, and illegal drugs. Big issues like these must be decided in an environment that is non-political, non-religious, non-partisan, and non-bias in any way. Only then can we find real, lasting solutions to all major issues we are facing and will face in the future. Now every issue in the UN is power and political struggle. Nothing is ever resolved with common sense, and the way it is good for the world, and the people.

The NUN will develop new international rules and laws regarding these issues, then implement and ENFORCE these laws equally and neutrally to all the member nations. We will have a Law-based world.

Every nation will be allowed to make its own rules and laws regarding political views, governing systems, official religions, etc.

The NUN will get involved with the private issues of sovereign nations much less than what the European Union currently does with its member nations. The NUN will do the opposite; it will ensure that sovereign nations, businesses, and individuals have as much independence and freedom as possible, not less.

When a man starts shooting a gun around or beats his family, the local police have the absolute power and mandate to remove that person who is a danger to his family or fellow citizens. If parents starve their children, they will be prosecuted for it. Why are the leaders of many countries not governed by the same law as their citizens?

Our leaders like to talk about how all the world's nations are a family of nations. Isn't it high time that we start governing this world as a true family of nations where laws are the same for the leaders as they are for a common citizen?

We The People must take the power into our hands and then gently force the implementation of the new ideas that benefit this world and the human race. Let's help the UN to become all it can and should be!

Michael Møller, director-general of the United Nations Geneva office, is for the reform. He was asked: Secretary-General António Guterres has strongly defended the need for reform within the U.N. What specifically needs to change?

Michael Møller replied. "Pretty much everything. This is an organization created 70 years ago that has not entirely kept pace with rapid changes, realities, and big existential challenges such as climate change, migration, and health. We have to change our peace and security mechanisms, the way we do development, our internal management, and back-office functions."

"There isn't a single one of these [global] problems that can be solved by a single actor. We have to do it together; otherwise, we shall all die together."

He also said, “We have to return to a Law-based world with ethics and moral codes that we can agree to. They do not have to be those that were agreed upon 70 years ago, because the world is changing, and we have to change with it.”

As growing concerns over climate change, human rights abuses, and mass migration intensify pressure for U.N. reform, Michael Møller, director-general of its Geneva office in Switzerland, insists that multilateralism is all the more vital.

Fear

I understand that many people might be afraid of giving the UN more powers because lately, there has been a lot of talk about conspiracy theories of different factions trying to create a new world order to take over the world.

It's important to realize that the NUN will not have its armed forces; it will hire them from countries with large armed forces. This will ensure that there's no way that the NUN could become some kind of dictator and take over the world.

IMPORTANT: After we have reformed the UN, then there's no way that any other nation or faction could take over the world. The NUN will be able to put a stop to any power grabs.

Also, there will be countless internal and external means, rules, and laws that will ensure that the UN stays on the path it was meant to be.

I am afraid that, if we don't reform the UN, some nation or faction will take over the world sooner or later. Here below is one opinion of the “Great Reset” fear that many share:

Ukraine

As we have just seen in Ukraine, if one of the world's large countries starts military action against another nation, that would be a very complicated situation to deal with. But I am very surprised and glad to see how united most of the world is against Russian aggression in Ukraine. This proves that most people, businesses, and nations are willing to “suffer” and tighten their belts for peace. This also supports the notion that they would most likely support the UN peace reform, and any future sanctions the NUN would place on any nation or business.

If the NUN peace mandate had already been in effect when Russia attacked Ukraine, then the NUN could have severely penalized any nation/business for violating the sanctions against Russia. I believe that most nations would not have risked getting penalized, which would ensure that Russia would have run out of money very fast, and then it would have been impossible for Russia to continue the war.

Currently, several nations are buying Russian oil, and they are not planning to stop. But if there were, for example, hefty monetary fines for buying Russian oil, then these nations would think twice before violating these sanctions. If they continue buying the oil, they could be thrown out of the NUN for a period. If we have a strong NUN, there would be countless ways to penalize businesses and nations for violating any sanctions or starting a war.

The key is to immediately isolate any aggressive country or country that breaks the sanctions with severe economic sanctions and penalties.

After the NUN is in power, it will be very unlikely for any war to start. Just think about it; how could any country, regardless of how powerful it is, survive if the whole world is MANDATED by law to be against it?

Also, in the future, people worldwide will understand that they are part of the solution, and they should stop traveling to and buying anything from a country causing problems. No country could afford to be isolated.

When the NUN is in charge of keeping the peace, most smaller countries will soon realize that they don't need a big military force anymore. They will have small armed forces for protection against possible riots, terrorism, a national guard, etc. By having small armed forces, they can save a lot of money.

Any border disputes between countries, independence movements, etc., will be resolved in the International Courts, and the NUN will make sure that the nations adhere to these decisions.

Any group of people can start legal action against their country's leaders, police, or army if they are being discriminated against or mistreated. Furthermore, freedom fighters in any country will not need any more because any group of people could challenge the current leaders in open and fair elections or the International Courts.

Also, most importantly when the NUN is in charge, we will have a new code of conduct, values, and ethics that nations of the world get used to adhering to. Then, it would be much more unlikely that any nations would break these codes because they have become the new norm. For example, on a personal level, not too long ago, it was quite typical or even expected that we spank our children, but now because of education, not spanking has become a new code of conduct that most people respect. This is happening on a national level too. Before, nations polluted their rivers and lakes without batting an eye, but slowly nations are getting used to protecting their nature. Or in most countries, the police were more or less corrupt in the early days, but then little by little the police have gotten better, and now in most civilized countries they mostly no longer are corrupt. They have gotten used to being honest. We must educate the people of the world to get used to adhering to new values and ethics.

IMPORTANT: When I talk about giving the UN more power, understandably, many people may fear that some group of people will end up seizing powers in the UN. That is a valid fear, but there's NO WAY that any group of people or a country(ies) could abuse these powers in any way. There will be multiple internal and external safeguards to ensure there can never be any kind of power grab, and the NUN cannot be misused by any individuals, group, or country for their benefit. The NUN will create new IMPARTIAL laws and regulations for itself. Also, the NUN will not have arms, so how could it even try to take over the world?

No individuals or groups in the NUN can start any armed operations independently. All sanctions, armed responses, or peacekeeping missions will be voted on by all the member nations. And of course, the NUN would always use all the nonviolent means first, such as negotiations, penalties, and sanctions. These measures would be applied immediately, not after years of illegal actions of dictators and countries, as now is customary.

NATO could easily become a useless relic of the past. Treaty obligations tie the U.S. to the defense of 67 different countries worldwide, going well beyond the 30-member NATO alliance. All these treaties and bilateral defense agreements would be history.

Even though the US, Russia, China, and some other countries may not initially support the UN reform, they will eventually join in because their citizens will demand it. Most importantly, these major countries cannot stop others from voting for the UN reform. Majority wins!

If these three big countries somehow could hinder or stop the UN reform, they would reveal that they don't want what's good for the world, but they want to keep wars and turmoil going on.

Nationalists, you don't have to worry because, under the NUN, all the nations in the world would be even FREER than before, to do as they please. Nations could concentrate on building their countries, instead of maintaining costly militaries and unnecessary alliances. Every sovereign nation's independence would be sacred and respected, and the NUN will ensure that it, or other nations, won't violate other sovereign nations' independence in any way.

Of course, there will be a lot of details to be worked out, but if we aim to have peace on earth, we must all compromise and find common sense solutions.

What will happen if we don't reform the UN?

Putin has consistently blamed the west for its downfall, which I wholeheartedly agree with. Putin proclaimed that western elites are terrified that their global order is being dismantled. "No matter how much Western and so-called supranational elites strive to preserve the existing order of things, a new era is coming, a new stage in world history," Putin said.

The west is like the Titanic, where politicians are arranging deck chairs when they should have a united front against the rise of other countries and organizations, which are trying to dismantle the US dollar's world dominance and create a new world order. This is why we live in total chaos; there's a lot of fighting between these different factions. We are living in the New World Disorder.

And even with good-meaning organizations and ideas of saving the world, they will not work because it's too late for some fragmental changes and improvements. We need one master plan that has the potential of creating lasting peace and major positive changes.

The Old World Order is slowly but surely being dismantled by warmongers, big money, globalists, hackers, terrorism, unfriendly national powers, etc. We can create the New UN that will stop all of these factions. TAKING OVER THE UN IS THE ONLY WAY WE CAN STOP THEM!

Whose values will govern the world?

Tony Blair said. "The single biggest threat to the west is that we don't understand that the 21st century will be a battle about values, whose values will govern the world?"

By whose values do you want to live? And more importantly, whose values do you want to govern the world; American, Chinese, European, Russian, western, or Asian? Until now, we have been living mostly by western values, but wouldn't it be fairer for ALL the people and nations in the world if we lived by common sense, down-to-earth, IMPARTIAL values, ethics, and laws? Values that are based on the good of the people, nature, businesses, nations, and the whole world.

When the NUN governs the world, all countries can live by their values as long as they are not hurting anybody. Reforming the UN is the way to go, but are we smart enough to take that road?

Who will have the custodianship of the world?

We The People should, before it's too late, come up with our plan to take over the world and create a world order that is good for all the people and the world itself. All the other plans for the new world order that are currently in play benefit just a small group of people/organizations or a few nations. And what's more alarming is that all of these plans are aiming for world dominance in a bad way.

Unfortunately, we don't have too much time left; as you must have already concluded that the current world governing system is broken, and sooner or later, this will lead to major worldwide destruction.

Where would the UN reform lead?

The beauty of this idea is that it is only the beginning. First, we will reform the UN, then our countries. Over time, this could lead to a new kind of world, where people are kind and take care of this world and each other... paradise!

How could one ever know where the UN reform will lead us when every new a good deed in the NUN inspires a new, even greater deed.

All I know is it will be wonderful.

I firmly believe that after we reform the UN, and it will start making a huge difference in everybody's lives, we will realize how backward and inhumanely we have been living our lives, destroying the world, killing and enslaving each other, for what?

All humans are entitled to be treated with basic dignity and values.

Being treated with respect doesn't belong to just the rich and elite.
Dignity, freedom, and basic human conditions are everybody's inherent rights!

We will realize how our governments around the world have been using us, and then discarding us as human trash. It's a sad truth that even in the best of countries, we are mere "slaves" of the system.

Let's reform, and transform the UN, our countries, neighborhoods, and our own lives once and for all. We The People can do it. We must take power away from our governments and other institutions. This world was supposed to be for us; We The People of the world, and not only for the elite, governments, and big corporations.

Even if this idea would not initially succeed, it still would be well worth the effort, like the thousands of other peace campaigns, initiatives, and programs that have been launched before. They have taken us closer to peace. This peace movement would still highlight that as long as we LET our leaders and political parties wage war just because they are in the pockets of the big money, we will not have peace on earth. The only way to peace is with the NUN.

Who will be the first brave politician/country who dares to utter these words to their supporters, political party, and big money: "Thank you all for your support, but now I must do what's good for my people and the world. I support the UN peace reform." This plan gives politicians a convenient excuse to disobey! Most decent politicians in civilized countries will support and welcome this New Impartial, Value, and Law-Based World Order. Most politicians are just as tired of wars and toothless UN, as we all are. Let's give them an excuse to arise against the old-world order! And then it will be just a matter of time and entire countries will start supporting this plan.

I don't have to tell you what this could mean for the world if we would pull this off. It would be the most magnificent accomplishment ever in the history of mankind.

Can you IMAGINE how the world would be if we had a New Impartial, Value, and Law-Based World Order? There just isn't anything more significant than this endeavor! Do you want to be a part of the history of transforming and redefining the human experience on the planet earth well beyond our imaginations?

Let's do it, let's save the world.

Please, let me know your thoughts about how to improve this manifesto.

Thank You.

And of course, having philanthropy organizations on board would be nice. Any money we get would all go directly to some advertising company.
